PROBE PLACES NO RESPONSIBILITY IN GIRL'S DEATH

Jury Returns Verdict of Accidental Death in Fatality of Minneapolis Girl

Unable to determine from the evidence available the person or persons responsible, a coroner's jury here late Monday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Miss Grace Malmberg, 23 year old Minneapolis girl, who succumbed to injuries arising from the crash of two cars near Brainerd at 1:15 a. m. Sept. 6.

The verdict indicated inability to arrive at the true facts and circumstances of the accident on State Trunk Highway No. 2.

The findings stated specifically that it was impossible to determine the responsibility of the accident.

Much Testimony Introduced
The inquest which occupied the major part of the day in the court room at the court house involved largely contradictory evidence of the circumstances, accusations and denials of intoxication and infractions of driving laws.

Roy Norquist, driver of the vehicle striking the Earl Carlson machine carrying Miss Malmberg, was cleared by the verdict. He had been accused by friends of Carlson as appearing influenced by liquor and by Carlson of driving without lights and on the wrong side of the highway. All accusations were denied by Norquist as he testified that his car was with lights and on his own side of the highway and that he had not taken a drink of liquor that evening.

Studies Evidence an Hour
The evidence revealed that at the time of the crash Carlson carried in the rumble seat of his car 15 quarts of beer which he was taking to Lake Sylvan for a Labor Day outing.

Carlson replied to question concerning his condition that he had not taken a drink on his way north from Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stowers who made up the Carlson party gave virtually duplicate evidence of Carlson's testimony.

The jury deliberated the evidence one hour before returning the verdict.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF NON-STOP FLIERS NOW LONG OVERDUE

EXPRESS BELIEF THEY MIGHT HAVE BEEN FORCED DOWN OFF AMERICAN COAST

New York, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—A Junkers monoplane manned by Willy Rody, Christian Joyannsen and Fernando Costa Viera, attempting a non-stop flight to New York from Lisbon, Portugal, was several hours overdue at 7 a. m. it was feared it might have been forced down in the fog off the American coast.

The monoplane, christened the "Esa" in honor of the youthful Rody's bride, carried gasoline sufficient for a 45-hour flight. It left Portugal at 4:30 a. m., New York time, Sunday morning.

Since its departure, the monoplane has been sighted only twice, first at the Azores, and again, at 2:40 p. m. yesterday, 395 miles east of Halifax, N. S.

Flying conditions on the course from Canadian waters to New York were reported "fair," with slight fogs present along some stretches. Visibility was approximately three miles; sufficient for fairly good navigation.

AUTO DEATH TOLL WILL DROP ONLY THRU EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM, ROTARIANS HEAR

Prevention of automobile accidents is a matter of education, believes Lucius Foster, of Minneapolis, head claim agent of the Travelers' Insurance Company. This fact has been recognized in some sections, Foster said in addressing the Rotary Club at its regular meeting today. He cited the case of the state of Missouri which has already adopted the educational phase by injecting practical suggestions easily understood by children into the text books of the schools.

Foster quoted liberally from statistics on the appallingly large death toll caused yearly by automobile accidents. A most salient point was his comparison of the excessive number of deaths due to automobile accidents over the casualty toll during the World War.

The speaker embellished his talk with illustrations and photographs of horrible but nevertheless actual happenings. Physical infirmities brought about through accidents were depicted through pictures by Foster in emphasizing his plea for safety.

Chart of illustrations showed how the majority of the accidents occur; the traps generally to blame for the mishaps and percentages on the time of the day they are most prevalent. Foster's talk covered many interest-

Seek Gypsies in $50 Willmar Hold-up Case

Willmar, Minn., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Three women and a man, believed to be Gypsies, were sought today as the persons who took $50 from John A. Halvorson, Lake Andrew farmer. Halvorson reported that the four accosted him while he was driving to Como Beach. He said they were not armed and made a quick getaway in their car which was parked along the side of the road.

DEMANDS REMOVAL OF WAREHOUSE, RAIL COMMISSION

SENATOR MULLEN CHARGES MEMBERS WITH MALFEASANCE IN OFFICE

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—State Senator Gerald T. Mullen, Minneapolis, today formally demanded removal of the state railroad and warehouse commission.

Mullen charged that O. P. B. Jacobson, chairman, and C. J. Laurisch, Mankato, and Frank W. Watson, St. Paul, the other two members of the commission, had exhibited "inefficiency, neglect of duty and malfeasance in office." The charges were filed with Governor Floyd B. Olson.

The charges were made as part of an application for "an investigation of the official conduct" of the three commissioners at a formal public hearing and if sustained the governor would remove the guilty commissioners from office.

A number of specific charges against the Farmers Terminal Association of St. Paul, M. W. Thatcher, its general manager, and L. M. Abbey, superintendent of terminals and merchandising department manager also were included in the demand to the governor. Mullen alleged that "illegal and fraudulent practices for the purpose of swelling the profits of the Farmers Union Terminal Association for the purpose of creating a large fund for the payment of salaries, bonuses and commissions to certain of its officers and agents" had been used.

The charges of neglect of duty and malfeasance in office on the part of the commissioners are based on their alleged knowledge of the practices of the Farmers Union Terminal Association and failure to prevent such practices and consequent losses to taxpayers as required by law.

Mullen has been active in investigating the alleged "padding" of grain samples in a Minneapolis elevator controlled by the Farmers Union Terminal.

REITERATES PLEA FOR UNEMPLOYED TO REMAIN IN THEIR HOME COMMUNITIES

Washington, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—The American Legion's winter relief and employment program was submitted to President Hoover at the White House today by the Legion committee which has been in session here the past two days.

Chairman Howard P. Savage of the committee declined to reveal the nature of the report.

Washington, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—A rousing appeal for the American Legion's 1,000,000 members to get behind the movement to make and give jobs this winter, is expected to result from the Legion's unemployment conference here.

The Legion's special commission which heard representatives of 25 state governors' labor, industry, and government present suggestions yesterday, went into session today to draft the recommendations to the Legion convention in Detroit Sept. 21 to 24.

Ambitious plans ranging from legalization of beer and a ten or twenty billion dollar bond issue were presented, but the more conservative advisers emphasized that the best aid could be rendered in the legionaire's home town. It was predicted that regardless of action taken now, the beer issue would be forced to vote at the Legion convention.

If each of the 10,000 posts will over the country can provide jobs for 75 veterans, this would take care of the world war fighters who are out of work, estimated to number 750,000.

Another proposal advocated repeatedly before the commission was to urge all unemployed in the small towns and rural sections to stay at home instead of drifting to cities where work is even more scarce.

Sentiment against the so-called "Dole" was general among the delegates and financial leaders who spoke, but there was agreement that relief must be provided if necessary.

The Legion was warned by General James G. Harbord, chairman of the Radio Corporation of America, against cash payment of the Veterans' Adjusted Compensation Certificates.

"It would be ridiculous," Harbord said. "For the Legion to advance a national program for unemployment relief in one hand and hold a tin cup in the other seeking a cash payment from the government."

Howard P. Savage, presiding, said the conference was not dealing with the cash payment plan but "if they keep goading the fellows into it, there will be a battle."

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—The skull of a Titanotherium, one of the large tusked animals of prehistoric days, was brought here by A. M. Jackley, who has just completed a trip in the Bad Lands.

The skull measures three feet across, and the teeth are almost three inches square on the surface.

Jackley said that the find was made by Lester Crew, who lives in the Bad Lands. Together they spent several warm hours getting the skull out of its resting place in the rock formation.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—A plea for additional Cortin serum to aid M. J. Andrew Nelson, 44, mother of six, in her fight against the rare Addison's disease, was sent today by the Albert Merritt Billings hospital to the University of Buffalo.

Dr. Frederick A. Hartman, of Buffalo, supplied the serum which was sent by airplane last week to save Mrs. Nelson's life. She is believed past the crisis in her illness. WATER LEVELS PLAN ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION

MINNESOTA LAKES LEVELS ASSOCIATION PLEDGES CONTINUANCE OF LEVELS POLICY

Enthusiastically determined to further its program of retention of minimum water stages for Northern Minnesota lakes and thus preserve the valuable tourist industry, the Minnesota Lake Levels association went on record here Monday approving the efforts of officers in gaining widespread support of U. S. Senators and Representatives to secure national legislation for the establishment of minimum water levels for reservoir lakes in all parts of the country.

The same fighting spirit that prevailed at the organization meeting last year was in evidence at the meeting of the association in the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday afternoon. Frank Heywood, Gull lake and Minneapolis, president, was in the chair.

Col. W. T. Mollison, Minneapolis, who spends considerable time in Washington, at the last session of congress explained the fight the association representatives had in securing the new water levels regulations the reservoirs in the Brainerd Lake Region now operate under.

Secretary Frank Russell in his report said he had letters from over a hundred United States Senators and Representatives, practically all of whom are in favor of setting minimum and maximum levels for the reservoir lakes. These letters, he said, were obtained by sending hundreds of communications to property owners of lake shore in every state in the country, requesting appeal to Senators and Representatives.

These replies were sent to Secretary Russell and copies forwarded to Congressman Harold Knutson. Such an appeal, Mr. Russell said, has given the Lake Levels association a nation-wide membership and strength to successfully get the necessary legislation to permanently preserve reservoir lakes.

Secretary Russell also gave the present lake levels of reservoir lakes in this section and compared them with levels of a year ago. Gull lake now has a level of 6 feet as against 4.8 feet last year. Whitefish chain is now 12.2 feet compared to 8.4 feet a year ago. Sandy with a level of 9.5 feet this year had only 4 feet last year.

Leech lake dropped this year from .06 feet level to .03 feet. Winnibigoshish also dropped one foot.

Judson Wicks of Minneapolis, president of the Minnesota Division of the Izaak Walton League, discussed the Twin Cities sewage disposal dispute and urged the association to join with the league in urging a sewage disposal plant.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the association is scheduled for the first part of November at which Congressman Knutson will be present and the program for the next year will be mapped. Officers will also be named at this meeting.

FIND PILOT'S BODY BY WRECKAGE OF PASSENGER PLANE

SEARCHERS FIND AL MALVICK DYING AFTER RAINSTORM CAUSED CRASH

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Searchers carrying flashlights and torches came upon the dying pilot of abig Chicago-Detroit airways passenger plane alongside the wreckage of the plane in the muddy wastes near Calumet lake in the southeast corner of the city today.

The pilot, Al Malvick, Chicago, was unconscious. He died a few minutes later after being placed in an ambulance and started for the Douth Chicago hospital.

The plane, without passengers, was due in Chicago at 8 p. m. last night. A sudden rain storm overtook the plane and Malvick fought to keep it under control. Scores of workers and residents in the vicinity of the lake saw the huge white craft, lit by lightning flashes, flying so low its missing motor's ragged drone could be heard. Once the plane was seen to skim a few feet above the lighted ofo of a big gas tank. It veered and pitched into the darkness.

C. J. Robertson and A. E. Derby, pilots, said:

"The storm struck without warning. Lightning flashed around us. The wind threatened to turn us over."

Malvick, a veteran flier, claimed the speed record for transport planes between Detroit and Chicago. He made the trip in 80 minutes Sept. 6.

ADMITS SLAYING OF NIGHT MARSHAL TO AUTHORITIES

ST. PAUL POLICE SECURE CONFESSION FROM ROBERT J. MORRIS

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Robert J. Morris, 34, whom police arrested while tracing a stolen automobile, has signed a confession that he shot August Farstad, Bayport night marshal, police said today.

Detective Lieutenant Charles Tierney and two assistants halted the car which they said was stolen and four Morris driving. He was taken to police headquarters and on questioning, he admitted he was one of a trio of men who had robbed a store in Stillwater and another in Bayport when Farstad confronted them.

Detectives quoted Morris as saying, "We shot it out and the marshal was unlucky. The other men didn't fire at the marshal."

Police records showed that Morris has served terms in the St. Cloud reformatory, St. Paul workhouse and the Washington State prison.

Farstad was recovering from the injuries of the shooting affair Sunday, Stillwater hospital attaches reported.

HOUSEWIVES MOVE TO FORTIFY POOR AGAINST PANGS OF HUNGER THIS WINTER

Cleveland, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Ohio housewives reverted to "canning bees" today to fortify the poor against the pangs of hunger this winter.

In a dozen cities and towns, women dusted off empty fruit jars and packed them with piping hot fruit and vegetables brought from the abounding fields and orchards.

Co-operating in the state-wide campaign to replenish dwindling city larders from the rural areas, farmers hauled their products to welfare organizations for distribution among the city poor or to churches where they were canned for winter consumption.

Reiterates Plea
The slogan was "can the surplus" in Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Canton, Youngstown and many other cities and hte response was spontaneous.

In Akron, where one of the most ambitious and enthusiastic "canning bees" is in progress, society women, social workers and housewives toiled over great kettles of steaming orchard and garden stuff, ladling it out in cans and jars that have been collected by enterprising boy scouts.

Peaches, plums, apples, carrots, corn, beans, preserves and jellies were stored away by charitable organizations for future distribution. The "canning bee," conceived by the Time-Press as one of the first in the state, hoped to yield 50,000 jars of foodstuff.

Similar public "bees" are in progress in Canton and Toledo. Catholic and protestant churches, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., will open their kitchens in Canton where the campaign is sponsored by the repository.

The suit was filed by a woman who gave her name as M. H. St. Pierre, and asked $200,000 damages.

The woman charged that in January 1931, Hutton told her he was in love with her and asked her to become his wife.

FIND PILOT'S BODY BY WRECKAGE OF PASSENGER PLANE

SEARCHERS FIND AL MALVICK DYING AFTER RAINSTORM CAUSED CRASH

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Searchers carrying flashlights and torches came upon the dying pilot of abig Chicago-Detroit airways passenger plane alongside the wreckage of the plane in the muddy wastes near Calumet lake in the southeast corner of the city today.

The pilot, Al Malvick, Chicago, was unconscious. He died a few minutes later after being placed in an ambulance and started for the Douth Chicago hospital.

The plane, without passengers, was due in Chicago at 8 p. m. last night. A sudden rain storm overtook the plane and Malvick fought to keep it under control. Scores of workers and residents in the vicinity of the lake saw the huge white craft, lit by lightning flashes, flying so low its missing motor's ragged drone could be heard. Once the plane was seen to skim a few feet above the lighted ofof a big gas tank. It veered and pitched into the darkness.

C. J. Robertson and A. E. Derby, pilots, said:

"The storm struck without warning. Lightning flashed around us. The wind threatened to turn us over."

Malvick, a veteran flier, claimed the speed record for transport planes between Detroit and Chicago. He made the trip in 80 minutes Sept. 6.

ADMITS SLAYING OF NIGHT MARSHAL TO AUTHORITIES

ST. PAUL POLICE SECURE CONFESSION FROM ROBERT J. MORRIS

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Robert J. Morris, 34, whom police arrested while tracing a stolen automobile, has signed a confession that he shot August Farstad, Bayport night marshal, police said today.

Detective Lieutenant Charles Tierney and two assistants halted the car which they said was stolen and found Morris driving. He was taken to police headquarters and on questioning, he admitted he was one of a trio of men who had robbed a store in Stillwater and another in Bayport when Farstad confronted them.

Detectives quoted Morris as saying, "We shot it out and the marshal was unlucky. The other men didn't fire at the marshal."

Police records showed that Morris has served terms in the St. Cloud reformatory, St. Paul workhouse and the Washington State prison.

Farstad was recovering from the injuries of the shooting affair Sunday, Stillwater hospital attaches reported.

HOUSEWIVES MOVE TO FORTIFY POOR AGAINST PANGS OF HUNGER THIS WINTER

Cleveland, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Ohio housewives reverted to "canning bees" today to fortify the poor against the pangs of hunger this winter.

In a dozen cities and towns, women dusted off empty fruit jars and packed them with piping hot fruit and vegetables brought from the abounding fields and orchards.

Co-operating in the state-wide campaign to replenish dwindling city larders from the rural areas, farmers hauled their products to welfare organizations for distribution among the city poor or to churches where they were canned for winter consumption.

Reiterates Plea

The slogan was "can the surplus" in Cleveland, Toledo, Akron, Canton, Youngstown and many other cities and hte response was spontaneous.

In Akron, where one of the most ambitious and enthusiastic "canning bees" is in progress, society women, social workers and housewives tolled over great kettles of steaming orchard and garden stuff, ladling it out in cans and jars that have been collected by enterprising boy scouts.

Peaches, plums, apples, carrots, corn, beans, preserves and jellies were

WATER LEVELS PLAN ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION

MINNESOTA LAKES LEVELS ASSOCIATION PLEDGES CONTINUANCE OF LEVELS POLICY

Enthusiastically determined to further its program of retention of minimum water stages for Northern Minnesota lakes and thus preserve the valuable tourist industry, the Minnesota Lake Levels association went on record here Monday approving the efforts of officers in gaining widespread support of U. S. Senators and Representatives to secure national legislation for the establishment of minimum water levels for reservoir lakes in all parts of the country.

The same fighting spirit that prevailed at the organization meeting last year was in evidence at the meeting of the association in the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday afternoon. Frank Heywood, Gull lake and Minneapolis, president, was in the chair.

Col. W. T. Mollison, Minneapolis, who spends considerable time in Washington, at the last session of congress explained the fight the association representatives had in securing the new water levels regulations the reservoirs in the Brainerd Lake Region now operate under.

Secretary Frank Russell in his report said he had letters from over a hundred United States Senators and Representatives, practically all of whom are in favor of setting minimum and maximum levels for the reservoir lakes. These letters, he said, were obtained by sending hundreds of communications to property owners of lake shore in every state in the country, requesting appeal to Senators and Representatives.

These replies were sent to Secretary Russell and copies forwarded to Congressman Harold Knutson. Such an appeal, Mr. Russell said, has given the Lake Levels association a nationwide membership and strength to successfully get the necessary legislation to permanently preserve reservoir lakes. Secretary Russell also gave the present lake levels of reservoir lakes in this section and compared them with levels of a year ago. Gull lake now has a level of 6 feet as against 4.8 feet last year. Whitefish chain is now 12.2 feet compared to 8.4 feet a year ago. Sandy with a level of 9.5 feet this year had only 4 feet last year.

Leech lake dropped this year from .06 feet level to .03 feet. Winnibigoshish also dropped one foot.

Judson Wicks of Minneapolis, president of the Minnesota Division of the Izaak Walton League, discussed the Twin Cities sewage diversion dispute and urged the association to join with the league in urging a sewage disposal plant.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the association is scheduled for the first part of November at which Congressman Knutson will be present and the program for the next year will be mapped. Officers will also be named at this meeting.

Region of Fierce Heat Just Above the Earth?

Just a mere 50 miles above our heads the temperature is between 1,000 and 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit, according to a new theory of the earth's atmosphere presented by Prof. B. Guthenberg, of the California Institute of Technology. This extremely hot weather a few miles up, according to Professor Guthenberg's novel theory, is because the atmosphere is practically the same in composition throughout and not exclusively helium in some high layers, as other physicists have concluded. Although the temperatures are high in the heights of the stratosphere, the air is very diffuse and thin. Only a rocket could actually penetrate the atmospheric heights to bring back evidence of what actually exists there, Professor Guthenberg said. The shells of the long-range gun used by the Germans in bombarding Paris probably traveled in a highly heated region of thin atmosphere, but since they exploded, it is not known how they were affected by the heat that they encountered.

SMALLEST NATION SMILES AT DEBTS

Lichtenstein Is Untroubled by Taxes and Arms Parley.

Washington.—The smallest European principality, overlooked in all debt negotiations because it has no debt, and omitted from all arms conferences because it has no standing army, is practically the only country in Europe to report a substantial treasury surplus—and this in spite of the fact that it has no taxes.

Lichtenstein, five square miles smaller than the District of Columbia, is a piece of Austria about thirty miles east from Lake Constance, on the banks of the Rhine. The 12,000 inhabitants pass most of their time in agricultural work, although there is considerable weaving done, much of it with imported American cotton.

Lichtenstein has been singularly free from wars. Right in the way of heavy troop movement in the World war, she remained unscathed. Her last attempt at a so-called war was in 1863, when the Lichtenstein army of 80 men joined the Austrian army in settling its difficulties with Prussia. But the Lichtensteins arrived too late for the battle and returned without having fired a gun. The helmets and arms from the "war" are among the most prized possessions in the ancient castle of Vaduz.

For those who wish to evade taxes, Lichtenstein is a paradise, because they have no taxes. Once in the last 50 years were they assessed a small sum to pay for a dyke to hold back the waters of the Rhine, but the rest of the cost of their government is paid by the princes of Lichtenstein, who are among the largest property holders in Europe. As a matter of fact, their property holdings in the rest of Europe are greater than the size of little Lichtenstein.

France Ready to Give Back Russian Warships

Paris.—The French government has announced that the ministry of marine was prepared to give back to the Soviet Russian government the twelve former czarist warships which have been turning to rust in the blue water of Bizerta harbor, Tunisia.

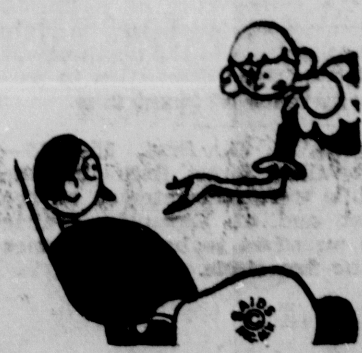

The Moscow government was reported to be preparing to ask France to return the warships. France would be more than pleased, for Bizerta harbor is none too big and the presence of the old warships congests the harbor.

The fleet includes one first line battleship, one cruiser, one auxiliary cruiser, five destroyers and four submarines.

These vessels were used to evacuate the Wrangel army, carrying them from Crimea to Tunis, where they were split up, the soldiers and officers scattering over the world while the warships were interned.

Since that time the ships have been

Landing Plane on Lawn Costs Pilot $25 Fine

Tucson, Ariz.—Landing his airplane in the yard of a sorority house and making a date with one of the girls cost Alfred A. Hurgin, Nogales, aviator, $25.

Hurgin insisted it was a forced landing, but John Dwyer, chief of police, heard about the date and declared the stunt was prearranged. He caused Hurgin's arrest under a city ordinance prohibiting the operation of motor vehicles without mufflers, and the flyer was fined $25.

The aviator wanted to take off from the sorority house yard, but the chief made him have the plane hauled outside the city limits.

His Wife Is So Ugly He Is Happy Husband

Southampton, England.—Mortimer Leesetoff, who disembarked here from America, proudly told British reporters that he had won the prize awarded to "the happiest husband in America," because his wife was the ugliest woman in the world.

He attributes his family bliss to the fact that his wife is ugly, knows it, and does not mind being told about it. Leesetoff thinks that all marital unhappiness is caused by women being self-conscious about their looks.

TOUR OF STATE'S RESOURCES TO BEGIN SEPT. 27

NEW CONSERVATION COMMISSION TO VISIT GAME AND FISH REFUGES

The new conservation commission will start its first tour of inspection of the state's natural resources September 27.

Determination to make the trip was made at a meeting held recently in which the commission a denial of the plea of a number of counties for at least a short opening of the chicken and grouse hunting season was approved.

The trip to be made starting late this month is expected to take a week and will be over northern sections of the state. The commissioners will view northern Minnesota's timber, streams, lakes and mines, including as a part of the trip, a two-day canoe journey through the far northern area.

Another trip is planned for October by the commission, it was announced, and this one, instead of stressing natural resources, will emphasize the game and fish situation. Southwestern Minnesota will be visited on the second trip, which will include many game and fish refuges, fish hatcheries and game farms.

W. T. Cox, newly appointed conservation commissioner, will direct the trip this month, aided by Grover M. Conzet, state forester, and W. D. Stewart, director of game and fish.

Splendid Records Made by Old Clipper Ships

The clipper ships which were constructed for the California trade were built with extreme care, although, as far as possible, everything was sacrificed to speed, for freights were high and prices depended upon the quickness with which goods could be delivered to the Pacific coast.

Clippers costing as high as $80,000 sometimes paid for themselves on their first voyage. There is the story of one old sea captain who was anxious to carry sail as long as possible and paddocked his gear so that sailors could not take in sail without orders.

The Flying Cloud, which was built in East Boston by Donald McKay, was one of the fastest clippers ever launched. She had a figurehead of an angel on the wing carrying a speaking trumpet. Her mainmast, including the topmast and skysail pole, was 200 feet high; her main yard measured 82 feet and her bowsprit and jib-boom projected 58 feet.

She sailed from New York to San Francisco in 89 days and 21 hours, covering in one day 433 statute miles, 42 miles faster than any steamship had then done in the same time. On this trip some of the crew had to be put in irons, although subsequently released to work the ship, and the first officer was suspended from duty because he disobeyed the captain's orders and cut the rigging. For a number of days the Flying Cloud averaged 13 1/4 knots, and sailed for 5,912 miles at an average of 227 miles a day.

The petrified forests of Arizona extend over an area of more than 100 square miles. About 40 square miles of this region has been set aside by the government as a national monument.

The youngster met his death tragically Friday evening when he was struck by a car on the street in front of his home as he ran in front of a parked automobile. The driver of the car, John Lundgren, 1009 Fir street, was absolved of blame by officials following an investigation.

Region of Fierce Heat Just Above the Earth?

Just a mere 50 miles above our heads the temperature is between 1,000 and 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit, according to a new theory of the earth's atmosphere presented by Prof. B. Gutenberg, of the California Institute of Technology. This extremely hot weather a few miles up, according to Professor Gutenberg's novel theory, is because the atmosphere is practically the same in composition throughout and not exclusively helium in some high layers, as other physicists have concluded. Although the temperatures are high in the heights of the stratosphere, the air is very diffuse and thin. Only a rocket could actually penetrate the atmospheric heights to bring back evidence of what actually exists there, Professor Gutenberg said. The shells of the long-range gun used by the Germans in bombarding Paris probably traveled in a highly heated region of thin atmosphere, but since they exploded, it is not known how they were affected by the heat that they encountered.

SMALLEST NATION SMILES AT DEBTS

Lichtenstein Is Untroubled by Taxes and Arms Parley.

Washington.—The smallest European principality, overlooked in all debt negotiations because it has no debt, and omitted from all arms conferences because it has no standing army, is practically the only country in Europe to report a substantial treasury surplus—and this in spite of the fact that it has no taxes.

Lichtenstein, five square miles smaller than the District of Columbia, is a piece of Austria about thirty miles east from Lake Constance, on the banks of the Rhine. The 12,000 inhabitants pass most of their time in agricultural work, although there is considerable weaving done, much of it with imported American cotton.

Lichtenstein has been singularly free from wars. Right in the way of heavy troop movement in the World war, she remained unscathed. Her last attempt at a so-called war was in 1866, when the Lichtenstein army of 80 men joined the Austrian army in settling its difficulties with Prussia. But the Lichtensteins arrived too late for the battle and returned without having fired a gun. The helmets and arms from the "war" are among the most prized possessions in the ancient castle of Vaduz.

For those who wish to evade taxes, Lichtenstein is a paradise, because they have no taxes. Once in the last 50 years were they assessed a small sum to pay for a dike to hold back the waters of the Rhine, but the rest of the cost of their government is paid by the princes of Lichtenstein, who are among the largest property holders in Europe. As a matter of fact, their property holdings in the rest of Europe are greater than the size of little Lichtenstein.

France Ready to Give Back Russian Warships

Paris.—The French government has announced that the ministry of marine was prepared to give back to the Soviet Russian government the twelve former czarist warships which have been turning to rust in the blue water of Bizerta harbor, Tunisia.

The Moscow government was reported to be preparing to ask France to return the warships. France would be more than pleased, for Bizerta harbor is none too big and the presence of the old warships congests the harbor. The fleet includes one first line battleship, one cruiser, one auxiliary cruiser, five destroyers and four submarines.

These vessels were used to evacuate the Wrangel army, carrying them from Crimea to Tunis, where they were split up, the soldiers and officers scattering over the world while the warships were interned.

Starred that from the ship, have been unattended and it is doubtful if they could ever be made seaworthy again. The wooden decks have rotted under the African sun and rains, the bottoms are covered with barnacles and the sides are red with rust. The boilers and engines have rusted and fallen apart.

The French government will reply to Moscow that there is no objection to Soviet sailors taking the vessels over, but Russia must bear all the expense of returning to a Russian port.

Landing Plane on Lawn Costs Pilot $25 Fine

Tucson, Ariz.—Landing his airplane in the yard of a sorority house and making a date with one of the girls cost Alfred A. Hurgin, Nogales, aviator, $25.

Hurgin insisted it was a forced landing, but John Dwyer, chief of police, heard about the date and declared the stunt was prearranged. He caused Hurgin's arrest under a city ordinance prohibiting the operation of motor vehicles without mufflers, and the flyer was fined $25.

The aviator wanted to take off from the sorority house yard, but the chief made him have the plane hauled outside the city limits.

His Wife Is So Ugly He Is Happy Husband

Southampton, England.—Mortimer Leesetoff, who disembarked here from America, proudly told British reporters that he had won the prize awarded to "the happiest husband in America," because his wife was the ugliest woman in the world.

He attributes his family bliss to the fact that his wife is ugly, knows it, and does not mind being told about it. Leesetoff thinks that all marital unhappiness is caused by women being self-conscious about their looks.

TOUR OF STATE'S RESOURCES TO BEGIN SEPT. 27

NEW CONSERVATION COMMISSION TO VISIT GAME AND FISH REFUGES

The new conservation commission will start its first tour of inspection of the state's natural resources September 27.

Determination to make the trip was made at a meeting held recently in which the commission a denial of the plea of a number of counties for at least a short opening of the chicken and grouse hunting season was approved.

The trip to be made starting late this month is expected to take a week and will be over northern sections of the state. The commissioners will view northern Minnesota's timber, streams, lakes and mines, including as a part of the trip, a two-day canoe journey through the far northern area.

Another trip is planned for October by the commission, it was announced, and this one, instead of stressing natural resources, will emphasize the game and fish situation. Southwestern Minnesota will be visited on the second trip, which will include many game and fish refuges, fish hatcheries and game farms.

W. T. Cox, newly appointed conservation commissioner, will direct the trip this month, aided by Grover M. Conzel, state forester, and W. D. Stewart, director of game and fish.

Splendid Records Made by Old Clipper Ships

The clipper ships which were constructed for the California trade were built with extreme care, although, as far as possible, everything was sacrificed to speed, for freights were high and prices depended upon the quickness with which goods could be delivered to the Pacific coast.

Clippers costing as high as $80,000 sometimes paid for themselves on their first voyage. There is the story of one old sea captain who was anxious to carry sail as long as possible and padlocked his gear so that sailors could not take in sail without orders.

The Flying Cloud, which was built in East Boston by Donald McKay, was one of the fastest clippers ever launched. She had a figurehead of an angel on the wing carrying a speaking trumpet. Her mainmast, including the topmast and skysail pole, was 200 feet high; her main yard measured 82 feet and her bowsprit and jib-boom projected 58 feet.

She sailed from New York to San Francisco in 89 days and 21 hours, covering in one day 433 statute miles, 42 miles faster than any steamship had then done in the same time. On this trip some of the crew had to be put in irons, although subsequently released to work the ship, and the first officer was suspended from duty because he disobeyed the captain's orders and cut the rigging. For a number of days the Flying Cloud averaged 13 1/2 knots, and sailed for 5,912 miles at an average of 227 miles a day.

Preserve Petrified Forests

The petrified forests of Arizona extend over an area of more than 100 square miles. About 40 square miles of this region has been set aside by the government as a national monument.

CONDEMNS FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF THE PUBLIC UTILITIES

GOV. RITCHIE TELLS HIS VIEWS BEFORE BAR ASSOCIATION DIVISION

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland today aligned himself with those who oppose government ownership as the solution of the public utilities problem.

Ritchie is among the more prominent favorite son candidates for the democratic presidential nomination next year. He outlined his views before the public utilities section of the American Bar Association in convention here.

"The national policy, it seems to me," Ritchie said, "must not be government ownership. The capitalistic system has its defects, of course—periods of forced unemployment are perhaps the worst—but it has centuries of evolutionary growth back of it, and under it we have come to lead the nations of the world in every form of progress. I do not believe in crippling it."

"I would not deny the people of any state the right to protect and develop their power resources in whatever way may seem to them best adapted to that end. But I do not believe there are many instances in which state regulation will not aptly suffice rather than any form of state ownership."

Ritchie said there might be power resources of such special nature that public welfare would require special treatment. In this connection he cited Muscle Shoals and the Hoover dam project, but remarked that national policy with respect to the latter had been determined. He did not define the nature of special treatment which would be desirable at Muscle Shoals.

The governor said government ownership of the power industry would vastly reduce tax collections and would "make us political slaves of the federal government" in that it would create a political machine of "staggering magnitude."

Foretold His Death

Mark Twain, it is said, remarked about a year before his death that he came in with Halley's comet in 1835 and that he expected to go out with it the next year, 1910. This rather pathetic prophecy came true to the exact day, since the comet appeared in the sky during the night before the day he died.

Big Western White Pine Tree in National Park

A grand old western white pine tree, believed to be one of the largest of its kind in the world and estimated at more than one thousand years of age, is in Crater Lake National park, Oregon. It is 23 feet, 2 inches in circumference, the measurements being taken breast-high in accordance with the Spalding rules of measurements. Its height is 140 feet. The pine is located in a canyon on the middle fork of Anna creek, two and a half miles south of government camp. The east side of the gorge has been subject to heavy erosion, causing the roots of trees in that section to become almost trunks in their own right. But this great tree, growing on the west side of the canyon, has never suffered from the effects of such action. The great size of this giant tree is particularly amazing because Idaho, and not Oregon, is recognized as the real home of the western white pine.

What is Russian Situation--

So many contradictory reports come out of Russia that it is difficult to arrive at any definite understanding with regard to conditions. Undoubtedly travelers are shown just what the Russian leaders of the Soviets want them to see and they are told just what these same leaders want them to know.

That conditions under the old czaristic regime were deplorable is conceded, but if half the stories that come out of Russia are to be credited there has been little real advancement under the new, despotic rule of the Soviets. The people of Russia are so accustomed to abuse that they submit uncomplainingly to treatment that an American citizen would resent as an insult of the worst type, but the peasant accepts his lot almost without complaint, though families are divided, property is taken by the government without recompense and those who oppose the government are shot without a chance to save their miserable lives.

An American writer says that if a citizen of the United States wants to go to church he may do so, if he wishes to say what his children shall study he may do so within certain limits. If he cares to criticize the politicians he is at liberty to do so, if he wishes to go visiting and has the price he may go where he pleases, he may build his own house, can rent out his front rooms or he may operate any portion of his dwelling as a store room and can serve fountain drinks if he so desires.

All these things are done differently in Russia and the peasants are so accustomed to yield that there is little trouble for the government because the worker knows little of privilege or power within himself. He is not permitted to read newspapers except those uttered under direction of the Soviets. Opinions are not tolerated unless they agree with the opinions held by the self-elected leaders and the latter rule with a rod of iron. Death awaits the man or organization brave enough to defy or seriously disagree with those in power in Russia and this certainty of punishment, together with the almost colossal ignorance of the worker, makes the task of leadership in Russia a comparatively easy one. That there has been some advancement in a broad way for Russia is doubtless true, but if Americans were to submit to one-half the abuses heaped upon the toiler under the Soviets we could provide the world with everything necessary in the way of comforts and conveniences. But the American citizen will never give up his independence to follow the rule of the despot. We may complain of our lot and be convinced that almost any change might be for the better, but we'll stick to the old ship even though agitators paint a rosy picture of better conditions under a different form of government.

Fluctuating Securities--

In the past few years the United States, like all the rest of the world, has been passing through one of its most trying periods. Many lines of endeavor have been hard hit, some to the point of failure, and where dividends have heretofore been generous there are occasional deficits which must be made up to carry forward the business.

In all these strenuous days life insurance policies in old line, established companies have remained entirely safe and those deriving dividend from this source have had absolutely no cause for worry. On the contrary the life insurance companies have worried over the heavy loans asked by the holders of policies which have a substantial loan value. Loans on policies have always been available, but the companies advise strongly against putting the benefits of the policy in jeopardy because their experience shows that a loan once made is seldom paid. And those who can manage without a policy loan would do well to heed the advice of the life insurance company or agent.

Squelch the Drunken Driver--

Every community has suffered death and accidents through the acts of drunken drivers of auto cars. Brainerd is just now going through an experience of the sort and there will be more of such accidents unless radical steps are taken to reduce the hazards. A sane, careful driver may observe every rule of the road, but his regard for the rights of others counts for naught if he meets a man who is so confused through the use of alcohol that he has little idea of what he is doing and no ability to keep his car under control on his share of the highway. Punishment for the driver who brings death to an innocent person cannot be made adequate, but the courts can discourage drunken driving by promptly giving such drivers the limit provided by law whenever the culprits are brought before the bar of justice. Severe penalties should be the rule even though damage to person and property be inconsiderable.

Sparring for position is already begun in the presidential contest for next year and while President Hoover is little likely to have opposition in the republican convention the democrats may develop a fight which will split them wide open again. Unless the democratic division appears next year the fall campaign should be a warm one, with neither side having much advantage.

Minnesota has provided several men who have undoubted ability in the way of high finance. A few years ago the Pan projects caused huge losses and now the intricacies of getting dollars traveling in the Foshay direction are being exposed in the courts.

Every cigarette smoker who carelessly flips his stubs into the grass by the side of the road is a potential fire builder. "Help keep the forests green" by knowing that there is no fire in the disused cigarette. This is the dangerous season for fires.

Al Smith is his own spokesman when it comes to announcing his plans relative to the next democratic nominee. And no one but Al knows what these plans are at this time.

Few men realize their opportunities until the time for taking advantage of them has passed. The long look ahead is far better than a lament over lost chances.

An exchange says that a lot of worries can be slept off in a night, but neglects to state that these same worries prevent the sleep which is their cure.

UNIVERSITY PROSPECTS AND PARENTS
TO HEAR DEANS NICHOLSON AND BLITZ

COLLEGE ENROLLMENTS PROBLEMS TO BE CONSIDERED

University prospects and their parents of Brainerd and vicinity are all cordially invited to attend a meeting September 16, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock, at which time E. E. Nicholson, dean of student affairs at the University and Miss Anne Dudley Blitz, dean of women, will speak.

Deans Nicholson and Blitz have been touring towns giving undergraduates varied advice to prepare themselves during the annual Freshman week to be conducted from September 21 through September 26 so as to aid the new students in orientating themselves to University life.

General advice, including student life, undergraduate activities and registration procedure will be discussed during the meetings. An open forum will follow at which time anyone may ask questions concerning the University.

The Freshman will have a chance to tour both the main and agriculture campuses each day while special entertainment has been arranged including Lou Breese and several acts and the stage show will be brought to the campus.

Hi-Y Retreat Held at Cinosam Camp

The first meeting of the year was held Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 7:30. The new officers took charge of the meeting. Donald Hanson, pres.; Robert Jackson, vice pres.; Howard Zander, sec.; and Robert Ebert, treas. There was no old business from last year. The club is going to Cinosam Park for a retreat Saturday at 2 o'clock. The members are to bring their own lunch. Members were asked if they couldn't better the program for the year but nothing was accomplished. A motion was made and seconded that we pay $1.00 a year dues. A motion was made and seconded that the last year graduates come back as honorary members. They cannot vote but have all other privileges. The meeting ended with a loud discussion about attendance. There were about 12 members present. We had as our guest our most helpful senior, Gerald Cass.

Last Semester Averages
Following are the people who have the semester averages of 90 or above: Rayola Black 90, Pearl Bowman 90, Virginia Cook 93, Jean Cass 92, Cyril DeRosier 90, John Dahl 92, Eino Freeman, 94%, George Fourre 90, Wm. Howard Z.: Did it hurt him?
Gene S.: No, he said the only thing he noticed was that he made holes in his handkerchief everytime he blew his nose.

Drexel G.: Do you use tooth powder?
Parker C.: Naw, I don't believe in cosmetics for men.

Leo T.: Does your mother send your shirts to the laundry?
Lyle C.: No, I wear them once and tear them up myself.

Dorothy K.: So you've been abroad? Did you have "mal de mer," when you were crossing?
John F.: No, I was so sick I couldn't eat a thing.

Tommy K.: What was the cause of that collision down on the corner today?
Margaret H.: Two motorists after the same pedestrian.

A young bride was paying the milkman. "Do you keep your cows in a pasture?" she asked. "Why, yes, ma'am," he replied. "Oh, that's fine. I've heard that pastured milk is so much better."

A divinity student named Tweedle. Once wouldn't accept his degree. Cause it's tough enough being called Tweedle.

Without being Tweedle D. D.

If love is blind, as they say, how can there be such a thing as love at first sight?

A very short but interesting program was held Friday morning in the auditorium thus officially opening the school year. William McClenahan a former Brainerd high school graduate played the piano. His opening number was "Chloe" which was followed by two other popular pieces "Just One More Time" and "It's the Girl." He concluded with "Go Brainerd High School" but the applause was so great that he came back and played as an encore "St. Louis Blues."

Tri-Hi Outlines
Program for Year

Tri-Hi began last Tuesday with a good percentage of its members present. Beginning September 15 regular weekly meetings will be held Monday nights at the Y. C. A. at 7:30 p. m. Junior and Senior girls will be chosen in the next two weeks to fill the vacancy left by nine who graduated last year.

At the next meeting the constitution will be read and discussed. All members should be present.

All members who have not yet paid for the Senior Farewell Banquet or the week end party are requested to do so by Monday night.

The girls are looking forward to a successful and enjoyable year. Many serious discussion meetings will be held together with club supper meetings, and joint supper meetings with other clubs of the Y. M. C. A. Business meetings and some social entertainment are also being planned.

SCHOOL DAYS

Tuesday morning. Once again we could see the smiling, shiny faces of our sunburned, and beautifully tanned friends approach dear, old B. H. S., the ex-juniors trying to remember that they are dignified seniors, the new juniors exulting over the fact that they are no longer underclassmen, the present sophs tormenting their predecessors, and the new freshies trying, all in vain to not be recognized as such.

We all clambered into the auditorium looking over the already assembled crowd and found seats. Miss Tornstrom took the platform and with the loudest tones she was able to muster from her unused vocal cords announced gym not required for seniors, sent all eighth graders to room 204, and all honor students to the senior assembly. The rest of us hurried to be the first 30 in our special class rooms. School was in session.

We were encountered by Freshmen, seeking informations as to where such and such a room was, if locker 1551 was on the third floor, and from whom you had taken a subject.

Of course we were all poor little underclassmen once, but can you remember the day you come hustling to school with a notebook, pencil box, and a ruler? Of course not, but we saw many of our new schoolmates carrying these incidentals. There were all sizes and shapes of frosh, but the ones that amuse us most are the ones who try not to be noticed as freshies. In the long run freshmen will be freshmen.

Thus ends the tale of a first school day.

NEW TEACHERS

Bert J. Eliertson was born in Albert Lea, Minnesota where he attended grade and high schools. He entered the World War as a marine, saw service in Farnce and was wounded in Argonne forest. Later he enrolled in the University of Minnesota, attending five years. He has his B. A. degree and is working for his M. A. He belongs to the Delta Sigma Pi professional and Delta Sigma Psi fraternity. His favorite sport is skiing, for which he received a letter while in high school. He has taught at the university for the past two years. He thinks B. H. S. one of the cleanest and best equipped schools he has seen and he expressed the pupils as being very clean and sportsmanlike.

This new teacher, Harry Burton, comes from the wild and wooly west (or shall we say northwest?) having been born in Glasgow, Montana. He attended high school in Williston, N. D. and then enrolled in Carlton college, where he received his B. A. Incidentally, this is his first year in teaching. He belongs to Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Epsilon. Also, he was the music editor of several papers in college, his happy being piano and pipe organ. His favorite sport is swimming. He was impressed most with the size and equipment of the school.

Born in Indianota, Iowa, a county seat with a population of 3,000, Mr. Blackford attended grade and high schools there with no intention of going to college. It happened however that he enrolled in Drake university and attended there for five years. In this manner and by attending summer school, he acquired his M. A. and M. S. degrees. In college he also received Beta Kappa Phi honorary and Kappa Delta Phi honorary educational. He has been the principal of two high schools for the past six years. His favorite sports are basketball and football. He received 3 letters in the latter while in high school.

COACH DAMMAN GIVES BRIGHT
OUTLOOK ON '31' GRID SEASONClasses Organized
for Honor Students

In an attempt to bring the honor students of the school together and give them an opportunity to progress as they deserve, a system of honor classes is being brought into practice. It consists of setting aside one period for each required subject in which only the honor students may be enrolled, the honor students being those who had high scholastic standing the previous years. According to the theory held out by the faculty, the honor students will not be hindered by the slower progress of those who do not "catch on" so easily. This seems to be a good idea, we hope it will succeed.

SKOOL SKANDEL

What is it Mr. Dammann has that is so attractive. The little twinkle in his eye? The way he combs his hair? Or his kind heart? His history classes are so popular. Why is it that? Lyle Cregger and Leo Turcotte are chosen for teachers by the freshmen. There's a reason! Why has "Pat" McGaffigan that vacant stare, or yes, he came back from Fort Snelling to go to school. Why does Freddy always look over the assembly before he chooses his seat? We wonder? Its seems as though "Al" is very much attached to high school. Some people do like it. Hildagard, we see no reason for your dreaming in classes over dark-complected boys. Larry MacPherson seems to miss some of the former senior class members. His favorite song is, "What Good Am I Without You?"

SEVENTY REPORT FOR INITIAL
PRACTICE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Coach Damman's first call for football men was answered last Tuesday by seventy candidates. The first few practices were taken up mostly with kicking, passing and running. There are some new boys in the school who reported for football whom you may see this season along with the eight returning lettermen: Foster, Gablou, Templeton, Koeck, Swanson, McPherson, Bob Wygle and Gerry Wygle. There were also a great many freshmen and sophomores who are out to receive their preliminary training and whom you may see in action in another year.

The team has not elected a captain this year due to the amount of competition but one man will be chosen before each home game, the first being on Friday, Sept. 25th with Wadena, and the second on October 3rd with Bemidji.

For these games Coach Damman and Assistant Coaches Taylor and Melby are going to arrange preliminary games between the boys under 125 pounds.

The coaches and players are all looking forward to a good year, although the team will not have quite the weight they had in previous years they will make up for this advantage with lightning speed and fighting spirit.

The basketball team this season is looking forward to carrying the schools colors far in district, regional and state tournaments. The veterans this year will be Captain Foster and McPherson, White, Larson, Bob Wygle and Gerry Wygle all letter men.

"Men are Strange
Creatures"

What an unmerciful twitting they give women about their bargains! And how they love to harp on "vain as a woman" when wives and daughters are successful in looking their best! . . . But to hear them at the office is another story. It's "my wife this, and my wife that"—with evident pride.

Vain? There's nothing quite so vain as men who have attractive and accomplished wives. How their wives manage the home—how they plan and buy—is a source of constant wonderment and appreciation. Nothing pleases a man more than the knowledge that his wife is a shrewd manager and a deft hostess.

But what is so amazing to men is commonplace to women. Women know that shrewd management and good taste are not matters of chance, but qualities to be cultivated—personal qualities that depend upon a thorough knowledge of style and value.

It is not difficult for them to obtain this knowledge. Every day they read the advertisements in the newspapers—printed statements of style, price and value. Statements that are sponsored and signed by companies known for business integrity and style authority.

Guided by this knowledge, women choose wisely—and receive for their money the highest in quality, the utmost in style.

If love is blind, as they say, how can there be such a thing as love at first sight?

A very short but interesting program was held Friday morning in the auditorium thus officially opening the school year.

William McClenahan a former Brainerd high school graduate played the piano. His opening number was Choe which was followed by two other popular pieces "Just One More time" and "It's the Girl."

He concluded with "Go Brainerd High School" but the applause was so great that he came back and played as an encore "St. Louis Blues."

Tri-Hi Outlines

Program for Year

Tri-Hi began last Tuesday with a good percentage of its members present. Beginning September 15 regular weekly meetings will be held Monday nights at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 p. m. Junior and Senior girls will be chosen in the next two weeks to fill the vacancy left by nine who graduated last year.

At the next meeting the constitution will be read and discussed. All members should be present.

All members who have not yet paid for the Senior Farewell Banquet of the week end party are requested to do so by Monday night.

The girls are looking forward to a successful and enjoyable year. Many serious discussion meetings will be held together with club supper meetings, and joint supper meetings with other clubs of the Y. M. C. A.

Business meetings and some social entertainment are also being planned.

SCHOOL DAYS

Tuesday morning. Once again we could see the smiling, shiny faces of our sunburned, and beautifully tanned friends approach dear, old B. H. S., the ex-juniors trying to remember that they are dignified seniors, the new juniors exulting over the fact that they are no longer underclassmen, the present sophs tormenting their predecessors, and the new freshies trying, all in vain to not be recognized as such.

We all clambered into the auditorium looking over the already assembled crowd and found seats. Miss Tornstrom took the platform and with the loudest tones she was able to muster from her yeses, local cords announced gym not required for seniors, sent all eighth graders to room 204, and all honor students to the senior assembly. The rest of us hurried to be the first 30 in our special class rooms. School was in session.

We were encountered by Freshmen, seeking informations as to where such and such a room was, if locker 1551 was on the third floor, and from whom you had taken a subject.

Of course we were all poor little underclassmen: once, but can you remember the day you come hustling to school with a notebook, pencil box, and a ruler? Of course not, but we saw many of our new schoolmates carrying these incidentals. There were all sizes and shapes of frosh, but the ones that amuse us most are the ones who try not to be noticed as freshies. In the long run freshmen will be freshmen.

Thus ends the tale of a first school day.

NEW TEACHERS

Bert J. Ellertson was born in Albert Lea, Minnesota where he attended grade and high schools. He entered the World War as a marine, saw service in France and was wounded in Argonne forest. Later he enrolled in the University of Minnesota, attending five years. He has his B. A. degree and is working for his M. A. He belongs to the Delta Sigma Pi professional and Delta Sigma Psi fraternities. His favorite sport is skiing, for which he received a letter while in high school. He has taught at the university for the past two years. He thinks B. H. S. one of the cleanest and best equipped schools he has seen and he expressed the pupils as being very clean and sportsmanlike.

This new teacher, Harry Burton, comes from the wild and wooly west (or shall we say northwest?) having been born in Glasgow, Montana. He attended high school in Williston, N. D. and then enrolled in Carlton college, where he received his B. A. Incidentally, this is his first year in teaching. He belongs to Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Epsilon. Also, he was the music editor of several papers in college, his happy being piano and pipe organ. His favorite sport is swimming. He was impressed most with the size and equipment of the school.

Born in Indiana, Iowa, a county seat with a population of 3,000, Mr. Blackford attended grade and high schools there with no intention of going to college. It happened however that he enrolled in Drake university and attended there for five years. In this manner and by attending summer school, he acquired his M. A. and M. S. degrees. In college he also received Beta Kappa Phi honorary and Kappa Delta Pi honorary educational. He has been the principal of two high schools for the past six years. His favorite sports are basketball and football. He received 3 letters in the latter while in high school.

COACH DAMMAN GIVES BRIGHT
OUTLOOK ON '31' GRID SEASONClasses Organized
for Honor Students

In an attempt to bring the honor students of the school together and give them an opportunity to progress as they deserve, a system of honor classes is being brought into practice. It consists of setting aside one period for each required subject in which only the honor students may be enrolled, the honor students being those who had high scholastic standing the previous years. According to the theory held out by the faculty, the honor students will not be hindered by the slower progress of those who do not "catch on" so easily. This seems to be a good idea, we hope it will succeed.

SKOOL SKANDEL

What is it Mr. Dammann has that is so attractive. The little twinkle in his eye? The way he combs his hair? Or his kind heart? His history classes are so popular. Why is it that?

Lyle Creger and Leo Turcotte are teachers for teachers by the freshmen. There's a reason!

Why has "Pat" McGaffigan that vacant stare, or yes, he came back from Fort Snelling to go to school.

Why does Freddy always look over the assembly before he chooses his seat? We wonder?

It seems as though "Al" is very much attached to high school. Some people do like it.

Hildagarde, we see no reason for your dreaming in classes over dark-complected boys.

Larry MacPherson seems to miss some of the former senior class members. His favorite song is, "What Good Am I Without You?"

SEVENTH REPORT FOR INITIAL
PRACTICE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Coach Damman's first call for football men was answered last Tuesday by seventy candidates. The first few practices were taken up mostly with kicking, passing and running. There are some new boys in the school who are reported for football whom you may see this season along with the eight returning lettermen: Foster, Gablou, Templeton, Koeck, Swanson, McPherson, Bob Wygle and Gerry Wygle. There were also a great many freshmen and sophomores who are out to receive their preliminary training and whom you may see in action in another year.

The team has not elected a captain this year due to the amount of competition but one man will be chosen before each home game, the first being on Friday, Sept. 25th with Wadena, and the second on October 3rd with Bemidji.

For these games Coach Damman and Assistant Coaches Taylor and Melby are going to arrange preliminary games between the boys under 125 pounds.

The coaches and players are all looking forward to a good year, although the team will not have quite the weight they had in previous years they will make up for this advantage with lightning speed and fighting spirit.

The basketball team this season is looking forward to carrying the schools colors far in district, regional and state tournaments. The veterans this year will be Captain Foster and McPherson, White, Larson, Bob Wygle and Gerry Wygle all letter men.

"Men are Strange
Creatures"

What an unmerciful twitting they give women about their bargains! And how they love to harp on "vain as a woman" when wives and daughters are successful in looking their best! . . . But to hear them at the office is another story. It's "my wife this, and my wife that"—with evident pride.

Vain? There's nothing quite so vain as men who have attractive and accomplished wives. How their wives manage the home—how they plan and buy—is a source of constant wonderment and appreciation. Nothing pleases a man more than the knowledge that his wife is a shrewd manager and a deft hostess.

But what is so amazing to men is commonplace to women. Women know that shrewd management and good taste are not matters of chance, but qualities to be cultivated—personal qualities that depend upon a thorough knowledge of style and value.

It is not difficult for them to obtain this knowledge. Every day they read the advertisements in the newspapers—printed statements of style, price and value. Statements that are sponsored and signed by companies known for business integrity and style authority.

Guided by this knowledge, women choose wisely—and receive for their money the highest in quality, the utmost in style.

Wildcats Loom as Strong Threat for Big Ten Honors

Editor's Note—Following is the first of a series on Big Ten football prospects. Today, Northwestern, tomorrow, Michigan.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Northwestern university will have another formidable football machine this year, one which promises to approach or even surpass, the record of last season's great team which tied with Michigan for the Big Ten title and lost only to Notre Dame.

Loss of 14 letter men by graduation and ineptitude will deprive Coach Dick Hanley of many of last year's stars but the Wildcats' 1931 squad in some respects appears even more powerful than the 1930 aggregation.

Among the missing stars are Hank Bruder, Lee Hanley and Lefty Leach from the backfield, Red Woodworth, guard; Bob Gonya, tackle; Bob Clark, center and Frank Baker and Larry Oliphant, ends.

Five regulars from last year's team will form the backbone of the 1931 eleven. They are aCpt. Dallas Marvill and Jack Riley, giant tackles; Jim Evans, guard; Reb Russell, fullback, and Pug Rentner, halfback.

Russell, who ripped Notre Dame's line to shreds and won recognition as one of the greatest plungers of 1930, and Rentner, a hard-runner and a superb passer, will be the big guns in Northwestern offense.

Al Moore, who has seen service on and off for two years, and will Lewis, reserve quarterback, re two of the leading candidates for the two backfield vacancies. Four sophomores, Ken Meenan, George Potter, Oliver Olson and Jake Sullivan, promise to round out one of the year's finest backfields. Meenan, who weighs 191, is an expert blocker and Sullivan is a shifty open field runner.

With Moore at quarterback, Meenan and Rentner at halfbacks and Russell at fullback, Northwestern could place a backfield averaging 185 pounds on the field.

Hanley likes big rough tackles, and he has four of them in Marvill and Jack Riley, last year's regulars and Paul Engbreitson a substitute in 930, and Bill Riley, 226-pound brother of Jack.

Evans will play one guard and Geo. Dilley, who showed great promise last year, will be given the job of filling Red Woodworth's place.

Mill Froberg, who weighs 82 and measures 6 feet, 2 1-2 inches tall, is the leading candidate for center. There is a possibility that Engbreitson may be shifted from tackle to the pivot position if Froberg fails to live up to expectations.

Replacing last year's ends will be Hanley's biggest job. Dick Fencil, a second year man, is slated for one wing and Ralph Eylar, a senior, and Ed Manske, Howard Kostbade and Art Jens, sophomores, are candidates for the other end.

TOMMY ARMOUR, DEFENDING CHAMPION, DRAWS KIRKWOOD IN PRO MEET PAIRINGS

Wannamoisette Country Club, Rumford, R. I., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—Thirty-three players remained in competition today as the Professional Golfers Association championship reached the match play stage.

One of the competitors, either Johnny Farrell, or Ed Miller of Gadsden, Ala., will be eliminated before first round play is started this morning. Farrell and Miller tied with Tom Kerrigan of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Jim Dante, Orange, N. J. and Laurie Ayton, Chicago, for the thirty-second qualifying place yesterday and still were tied after two holes of play-off competition had eliminated the other three. They will meet in "sudden-death" play this morning with the first man to win a hole qualifying for a third round match with him Foulis of Hinsdale, Ill.

Pairings for today's features, with the qualifying scores of the competitors are:

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 151, vs. Arthur Gusa, Narragansett, R. I.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 151, vs. Gene Sarazen, Great Neck, N. Y., 45.

Henry Clui, Bridgeport, Conn., 149, vs. Willie MacFarlane, Tuscaoe, N. Y., 150.

Horton Smith, Detroit, 151, vs. Walter Bemish, Genesee, N. Y., 150. Cyril Walker, Saddle River, N. J., 151, vs. Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., 151.

Johnny Golden, Noroton, Conn., 148, vs. Alfred Sargent, Toledo, 152.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, 149, vs. Peter O'Hara, Pittsburgh, 150. Jack Collins, Dayton, O., 150, vs. Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y., 148.

Bob Crowley, Haverhill, Mass., 150, vs. Pat Circelli, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 152. Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., 149, vs. Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass., 151.

Abe Espinosa, Chicago, 150, vs. Vincent Eldred, Bellevue, Pa., 152.

Bill Mehlhorn, New York, 152, vs. Leo Diegel, New York, 151.

Dennis Shute, Columbus, O., 150, vs. Tony Butler, Corpus Christi, Tex., 151.

Tommy Armour, Detroit, (defending champion and exempt from qualifying), vs. Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, 151.

Eddie Schultz, Troy, N. Y., 146, vs. Walter Murray, Gary, Ind., 149. Jim Foulis, Hinsdale, Ill., 152, vs. Johnny Farrell, New York, 153, or Ed Miller, Gadsden, Ala., 153.

Gene Sarazen, 1922, P. G. A. champion, turned in a brilliant 73-72-145, five strokes above par, to win the Alex Smith memorial medal by leading the 100 entrants in yesterday's qualifying round.

DOUBLE VICTORY GIVES CARDINALS LEAD OF 10 GAMES

CONNIE MACK'S ATHLETICS HOLD 12½ GAME EDGE OVER WASHINGTON

New York, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—St. Louis' Cardinals and the Philadelphia Athletics were faced today with the opportunity to clinch the 1931 championship in the National and American leagues respectively.

The Cardinals moved ten full games ahead of the second place New York Giants in the National league yesterday with a double victory over Philadelphia, 13 to 5 and 10 to 3. With only 11 games remaining the Cards now need only two more victories to clinch the pennant regardless of what the Giants should lose to Cincinnati today while St. Louis wins, New York will have lost their last mathematical chance for honors.

Philadelphia's American league lead over Washington was cut to 12 1-2 games yesterday when the A's broke even in a double header with Cleveland while Washington was defeating St. Louis. The Athletics still have 13 games to play and Washington 14, but if the Senators lose one more game and Philadelphia wins one more, Washington could not win the pennant if the Athletics lost all the rest of their contests.

St. Louis' double victory yesterday was gained by heavy hitting, the Cardinals collecting 32 hits in the two games.

Allen Stout and Flint Rhem held the Phils well in check.

No other games were played in the National league.

Philadelphia Athletics lost the first game of a double header to Cleveland, 6 to 2, but won the second, 9 to 7, with a six run attack in the fourth.

Four-hit pitching by Marberry and Hadley gave Washington a 6 to 3 vic-

A.A. WINNER WILLING TO MEET CHAMPIONS OF PACIFIC COAST

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—President Thomas J. Hickey, of the American association, said today the St. Paul Saints would be willing to meet the Pacific coast league champions in a series of games on the west coast if the Saints can defeat the international league champions in this year's annual "Little World's Series."

Such a series was agreed to by coast league officials last winter, Hickey said.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 15.—(U.P.)—With only two weeks before their first game, University of Minnesota football warriors today reported for their first practice.

Coach Fritz Crisler expected 100 candidates for the 1931 eleven to report for the workout. The first game on the Gopher's schedule is a double-header on Sept. 26 with North Dakota State and F. C. N.

Seventeen lettermen are back this year around which Coach Crisler will build his team which will face the Last year the Gophers held Stanford, considered one of the outstanding teams of the Pacific coast to a scoreless tie.

Out of the 100 candidates Crisler will have to pick the 33 men who will go to the Pacific coast in less than a month. Among the candidates who were on the campus were Pat Boland, Superior, Wis., tackle, Lloyd Stein, Two Harbors, center, and Captain Clarence Munn, Minneapolis, guard and one of the best punters in the middle west last year.

DOUBLE VICTORY GIVES CARDINALS LEAD OF 10 GAMES

CONNIE MACK'S ATHLETICS HOLD 12½ GAME EDGE OVER WASHINGTON

New York, Sept. 15.—(UP)—St. Louis Cardinals and the Philadelphia Athletics were faced today with the opportunity to clinch the 1931 championship in the National and American leagues respectively.

The Cardinals moved ten full games ahead of the second place New York Giants in the National league yesterday with a double victory over Philadelphia, 13 to 5 and 10 to 3. With only 11 games remaining the Cards now need only two more victories to clinch the pennant regardless of what the Giants should lose to Cincinnati today while St. Louis wins, New York will have lost their last mathematical chance for honors.

Philadelphia's American league lead over Washington was cut to 12 1-2 games yesterday when the A's broke even in a double header with Cleveland while Washington was defeating St. Louis. The Athletics still have 13 games to play and Washington 14, but if the Senators lose one more game and Philadelphia wins one more, Washington could not win the pennant if the Athletics lost all the rest of their contests.

St. Louis' double victory yesterday was gained by heavy hitting, the Cardinals collecting 32 hits in the two games.

Allyn Stout and Flint Rhem held the Phils well in check.

No other games were played in the National league.

Philadelphia Athletics lost the first game of a double header to Cleveland, 6 to 2, but won the second, 9 to 7, with a six run attack in the fourth.

Four-hit pitching by Marberry and Hadley gave Washington a 6 to 3 vic-

A.A. WINNER WILLING TO MEET CHAMPIONS OF PACIFIC COAST

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(UP)—President Thomas J. Hickey, of the American association, said today the St. Paul Saints would be willing to meet the Pacific coast league champions in a series of games on the west coast if the Saints can defeat the international league champions in this year's annual "Little World's Series."

Such a series was agreed to by coast league officials last winter, Hickey said.

CANDIDATES FOR GOPHER MACHINE REPORT TO CRISLER

17 LETTERMEN RETURN FOR SEASON TO BE INAUGURATED IN 2 WEEKS

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 15.—(UP)—With only two weeks before their first game, University of Minnesota football warriors today reported for their first practice.

Coach Fritz Crisler expected 100 candidates for the 1931 eleven to report for the workout. The first game on the Gopher's schedule is a double-header on Sept. 26 with North Dakota State and F. C. N.

Seventeen lettermen are back this year around which Coach Crisler will build his team which will face the most imposing array of football opposition that a Minnesota team has encountered in years. The team this year will journey to the Pacific coast to play Stanford in a return engagement. Last year the Gophers held Stanford, considered one of the outstanding teams of the Pacific coast to a scoreless tie.

Jack Manders, Milbank, D., fullback, and Brad Robinson, Baraboo, Wis., end, have been declared eligible on the status of Harold Anderson. Owatonna, end; Harold Krezowski, Minneapolis, end; Byub, Minneapolis, halfback, eGeorge McPartlin, Bemidji, halfback, and George Kakela, Eveleth, tackle, is still in doubt as the first practice was held.

Out of the 100 candidates Crisler will have to pick the 33 men who will go to the Pacific coast in less than a month. Among the candidates who were on the campus were Pat Boland, Superior, Wis., tackle, Lloyd Stein, Two Harbors, center, and Captain Clarence Munn, Minneapolis, guard and one of the best punters in the middle west last year.

MISSING BRAINERD GIRL SOUGHT BY POLICE AGENCIES

Girl, Disappointed in School, Leaves Home Monday While Mother Attempts to Household Duties

Three police agencies united today in a search for 14 year old Alice Edwards who ran away from home Monday morning because police say she couldn't get along with her teacher.

The report of the missing girl did not reach authorities until this morning when Thomas Edwards, 1402 South Broadway, a locksmith, informed Chief of Police Thomas Templeton the disappearance of his daughter.

Chief Templeton enlisted the aid of Sheriff Frank E. Little and Lieutenant R. S. Titus of the Minnesota Highway patrol. All agencies are assisting in the search. Unless the girl is found this afternoon a statewide appeal for help will be made. Her disappearance will be broadcast over WCCO tonight.

The girl's mother informed Chief Templeton that Alice left home about 10 a. m. while she was attending to household duties. Previously that morning the girl had gone to the St. Francis Parochial school and had been informed by the principal that she would have to get a transfer from the Lincoln school where she was enrolled. Alice then went to the Lincoln school, received a written transfer from Miss Alta Franklin, principal, and then returned home.

Mrs. Edwards stated, according to Chief Templeton, that she did not worry about the girl until noon when she failed to return home. Even then she believed her daughter at the home of friends and while she worried about her throughout the night she still believed that she was at the home of friends. Today she was of the opinion that Alice had run away from home, Chief Templeton said.

When Alice left home she was wearing a dark green jersey dress with light stripes around the waist, black overalls but was without head dress. She is 5 feet 2 inches tall, is dark complexioned and weighs 110 pounds.

SCHOOL DAY ROMANCE BLASTED AS WIFE OF OPERA STAR, FILES DIVORCE PLEA

Reno, Nev., Sept. 15.—(UP)—A school day romance broken by fame neared an end today when the divorce suit of Mrs. Grace Mackay Tibbett, wife of Lawrence Tibbett, opera and film star, was placed on the calendar for hearing.

Mrs. Tibbett's suit was one of 52 cases appearing on the dockets of the two courts after a busy session yesterday at which 90 decrees were handed down.

The suit was scheduled for a closed hearing before Judge Ben Currier, according to Judge A. Bartlett, attorney for Mrs. Tibbett and himself a former divorce jurist here. He gave out a statement for the famous baritone's wife in which she reiterated previous statements that fame and conjugal happiness do not go together.

Mrs. Tibbett revealed that she will continue to reside in Reno and will pursue a literary career. One of her first attempts will be an article on Reno. She already has published two books of poems and has a third on the presses now.

As Grace Mackay Smith she was a fellow student of Tibbett at a Los Angeles high school. He had come there from Bakersfield after the death of his father, William Edward Tibbett, a two-gun sheriff who was killed in capturing a notorious badman.

They were married in 1919 after leaving school and Tibbett continued his voice studies in Los Angeles. Their twin sons, Richard Mack and Lawrence Ivan, were born there.

He was a success almost overnight. A few months later he was brought to New York, heralded as the young "Rags to Riches" singer, and appeared as Valentine in "Faust" at the Metropolitan. Tibbett's place among the stars was assured, and a few years later he won wider fame in motion pictures.

Established in Beverly Hills, the first intimation of a separation occurred when Tibbett left last year on a concert tour and Mrs. Tibbett to visit them at any time. A property settlement was reached out of court.

Small Things That May Handicap the Worker

Study of more than a million workers, made by Statistician James Layfield, show that the following are the eleven best ways to annoy a boss—"minor characteristics in employees which keep them from moving ahead in the world":

Wiscracking in the presence of the boss; affecting of a southern accent; a weak memory which requires its owner to be introduced to folks five or six times before he is able to recognize them; giggling; know-it-all; holding the folk backwards in cutting beefsteak; furtive manners; wearing of vivid red neckties; happy-go-lucky; inferiority complex; superiority complex.

"These are a few of the qualities in mortal man which the bosses of a million workers tabbed as 'little habits with big consequences,'" says Mr. Layfield in the American Magazine. "The surprising fact is that bosses are so sensitive toward idiosyncrasies which one might think were too trivial to have any bearing on success or failure. In other words, you would be astonished to learn exactly how much your boss knows about you—how violently he may be swayed for or against you by the repeated exhibition of some trait of which you may not even be aware."

GANDHI PROPOSES PARTNERSHIP AT BRITISH CONFAB

WARNS GREAT BRITAIN AGAINST FORCEFUL SUBJECTION OF INDIA

London, Sept. 15.—(UP)—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, wearing his loin cloth, addressed the federal structure committee of the round table conference today and offered to withdraw from the negotiations if by so doing he would further the efforts to reach an agreement in India.

Gandhi, seated on a chair by the side of old Sankey on the red and gold entrance room of St. James' Palace, spoke 40 minutes. His tones were quiet, deliberate and low, and he spoke without notes.

He said he was participating in the conference "absolutely in the spirit of co-operation" and that he would strive to the utmost to find points of agreement.

Gandhi explained that the mandate given to him by the congress called for "an honorable partnership" between Great Britain and India which either party would be entitled to dissolve. He envisaged India as "a valuable partner not held by force but by a solemn cord of love."

Admitting Britain's ability to hold India in subjection by the sword, he contended that the result would be an enslaved and rebellious India. A British-Indian partnership, he continued, "as between two equal peoples might be of considerable assistance to you in balancing your budget."

Miller Testifies in Foshay Trial

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 15.—(UP)—Elwood W. Miller, member of a Philadelphia investment banking concern, today testified at the trial of W. E. Foshay and his six associates on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Miller said that he called on the Foshay Company an unannounced visit to Minneapolis in November, 1928, and asked to see a complete report concerning the purchase of a utility in which his concern was interested. He was not furnished this completely, he testified, and although he asked to see the books, they were never shown.

A. T. & T. Drops to New Low on Market Today

New York, Sept. 15.—(UP)—A loss of nearly five points to a new low since 1927 in stock of American Telephone & Telegraph, the world's largest corporation, turned the stock market down. Earlier in the day short covering had brought a temporary rally.

The break in American Telephone followed omission of the 75 cent quarterly dividend by Western Electric Co., its 98 per cent owned subsidiary and the second largest electrical equipment company in the United States.

"We thought he might be alive, but the men who got down to the bottom of the shaft, found him crushed to death," he said.

Season's "Dead" Ball Angle

By HARDIN BURNLEY

EVEN before this season's batting statistics are complete, fan discussion is warming up over the effect of the so-called new ball used this year for the first time. In order to curb too free hitting, both the National and American leagues took action last winter. Although the manufacturers denied, and still deny, that the regulation baseball was ever "livened up," the home-run epidemic for about ten seasons was such that the magnates decided to give the pitchers "a break." So the American League used outside stitching on the ball and the National not only did the same but it increased the ball's weight slightly. With what results? Well, as the season is entering its final month, there is an average difference of nearly 30 points in hitting figures between the twenty leading batters in both the big leagues, the heavier swatting being done by the American sluggers.

Does that mean that National League pitching thus far in 1931 has been better than that of the rival circuit? Hardly. Indeed, most critics believe the contrary is true. But many of them do think that the National League ball helps a skilled pitcher more than does the American League pellet.

Though the difference in weight is a scant fraction of an ounce, the slightly heavier National ball may account largely for less heavy hitting in the senior circuit. The amateur and other mathematicians of baseball should have a great time arguing that point throughout the entire winter league sessions of 1931-32.

While the new ball has cut home run totals considerably, it has not marred the prowess of famed hitters. Ruth, Simmons, Gehrig, et al. are still thumping for more than 300 in the American League, while Klein, Bottomley et al. have been doing about as well in the National League.

Winter discussion among officials may lead, it is hoped, to a uniform ball for both big leagues. In the majors, at least, surely the same type of ball should be used.

statements that fame and conjugal happiness do not go together.

Mrs. Tibbett revealed that she will continue to reside in Reno and will pursue a literary career. One of her first attempts will be an article on Reno. She already has published two books of poems and has a third on the presses now.

An Grace Mackay Smith she was a fellow student of Tibbett at a Los Angeles high school. He had come there from Bakersfield after the death of his father, William Edward Tibbett, a two-gun sheriff who was killed in capturing a notorious badman.

They were married in 1919 after leaving school and Tibbett continued his voice studies in Los Angeles. Their twin sons, Richard Mack and Lawrence Ivan, were born there.

He was a success almost overnight. A few months later he was brought to New York, heralded as the young "Rags to Riches" singer, and appeared as Valentine in "Faust" at the Metropolitan. Tibbett's place among the stars was assured, and a few years later he won wider fame in motion pictures.

Established in Beverly Hills, the first intimation of a separation occurred when Tibbett left last year on a concert tour and Mrs. Tibbett to visit them at any time. A property settlement was reached out of court.

Season's "Dead" Ball Angle

By HARDIN BURNLEY

© 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

EVEN before this season's batting statistics are complete, fan discussion is warming up over the effect of the so-called new ball used this year for the first time. In order to curb too free hitting, both the National and American leagues took action last Winter. Although the manufacturers denied, and still deny, that the regulation baseball was ever "livened up," the home-run epidemic for about ten seasons was such that the magnates decided to give the pitchers "a break." So the American League used outside stitching on the ball and the National not only did the same but it increased the ball's weight slightly. With what results? Well, as the season is entering its final month, there is an average difference of nearly 30 points in hitting figures between the twenty leading batters in both the big leagues, the heavier swatting being done by the American sluggers.

Does that mean that National League pitching thus far in 1931 has been better than that of the rival circuit? Hardly. Indeed, most critics believe the contrary is true. But many of them do think that the National League ball helps a skilled pitcher more than does the American League pellet.

Though the difference in weight is a scant fraction of an ounce, the slightly heavier National ball may account largely for less heavy hitting in the senior circuit. The amateur and other mathematicians of baseball should have a great time arguing that point throughout the entire Winter league sessions of 1931-32.

While the new ball has cut home run totals considerably, it has not marred the prowess of famed hitters. Ruth, Simmons, Gehrig, et al. are still thumping for more than 300 in the American League, while Klein, Bottomley et al. have been doing about as well in the National League.

Winter discussion among officials may lead, it is hoped, to a uniform ball for both big leagues. In the majors, at least, surely the same type of ball should be used.

Small Things That May Handicap the Worker

Study of more than a million workers, made by Statistician James Layfield, show that the following are the eleven best ways to annoy a boss—"minor characteristics in employees which keep them from moving ahead in the world":

Wisecracking in the presence of the boss; affecting of a southern accent; a weak memory which requires its owner to be introduced to folks five or six times before he is able to recognize them; giggling; know-it-all; holding the folk backwards in cutting beefsteak; furtive manners; wearing of vivid red neckties; happy-go-lucky; inferiority complex; superiority complex.

"These are a few of the qualities in mortal man which the bosses of a million workers tabbed as 'little habits with big consequences,'" says Mr. Layfield in the American Magazine. "The surprising fact is that bosses are so sensitive toward idiosyncrasies which one might think were too trivial to have any bearing on success or failure. In other words, you would be astonished to learn exactly how much your boss knows about you—how violently he may be swayed for or against you by the repeated exhibition of some trait of which you may not even be aware."

GANDHI PROPOSES PARTNERSHIP AT BRITISH CONFAB

WARNS GREAT BRITAIN AGAINST FORCEFUL SUBJECTION OF INDIA

London, Sept. 15.—(UP)—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, wearing his loin cloth, addressed the federal structure committee of the round table conference today and offered to withdraw from the negotiations if by so doing he would further the efforts to reach an agreement in India.

Gandhi, seated on a chair by the side of old Sankey on the red and gold entrance room of St. James' Palace, spoke 40 minutes. His tones were quiet, deliberate and low, and he spoke without notes.

He said he was participating in the conference "absolutely in the spirit of co-operation" and that he would strive to the utmost to find points of agreement.

Gandhi explained that the mandate given to him by the congress called for "an honorable partnership" between Great Britain and India which either party would be entitled to dissolve. He envisaged India as "a valuable partner not held by force but by a solemn cord of love."

Admitting Britain's ability to hold India in subjection by the sword, he contended that the result would be an enslaved and rebellious India. A British-Indian partnership, he continued, "as between two equal peoples might be of considerable assistance to you in balancing your budget."

Miller Testifies in Foshay Trial

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 15.—(UP)—Elwood W. Miller, member of a Philadelphia investment banking concern, today testified at the trial of W. B. Foshay and his six associates on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Miller said that he called on the Foshay Company an unannounced visit to Minneapolis in November, 1928, and asked to see a complete report concerning the purchase of a utility in which his concern was interested. It was not furnished this completely, he testified, and although he asked to see the books, they were never shown.

A. T. & T. Drops to New Low on Market Today

New York, Sept. 15.—(UP)—A loss of nearly five points to a new low since 1927 in stock of American Telephone & Telegraph, the world's largest corporation, turned the stock market down. Earlier in the day short covering had brought a temporary rally.

The break in American Telephone followed omission of the 75 cent quarterly dividend by Western Electric Co., its 98 per cent owned subsidiary and the second largest electrical equipment company in the United States.

Find Imprisoned Miner Dead in Mine

Equality, Ill., Sept. 15.—(UP)—After four hours of effort 50 men, working in relays, reached John O. Martin, 53, trapped in a coal mine rock fall today, and found him dead, according to Mrs. Tom Barnett, who lives near the scene.

"We thought he might be alive, but the men who got down to the bottom of the shaft, found him crushed to death," he said.

Martin and his three sons operated the mine, which is on the Martin farm, eight miles south of here.

Man Drowns as His Kin Bargain for His Rescue

Tientsin.—Bargaining relatives cost a Tientsin man his life recently.

While on a pleasure trip he fell into the water at Shanhaikuan, near here. Relatives and friends attempted to rescue him but failed.

A fisherman offered to save him for $500. Relatives thought the price too high but offered $130.

The fisherman turned away. Then the relatives offered $180.

The fisherman still refused.

Just as the relatives relented and agreed to the $500 price the victim's head disappeared in the water for the third time.

Accuse Professor of Murdering His Wife

Hampton, Va., Sept. 15.—(UP)—A 39-year-old college professor, who came to Virginia with his wife for a vacation with her parents, was held on a charge of murdering her today. Conflicting stories as to how she was drowned led mystery to the case.

The professor, Elisha Kent Kane, head of the romance language department at University of Tennessee described to Coroner George K. Vanderlice the scene at Lonely Grand View beach last Friday.

His wife, he said, had dived into the water while he was on the shore 300 yards away. Suddenly she screamed, her head bobbing up and down as if she was caught in a treacherous current. He told Vanderlice he swam quickly to her assistance, found her face downward in the water, tried to revive her after swimming with her to the beach, failed, and took the unconscious woman to a hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Ocean Traditions

A tradition of the sea of Biblical origin explains the use of the term Jonah, applied to a shipmate who is considered unlucky or a bringer of ill luck. Numerous and strange have been the reasons ascribed by ship companies for electing one of their number to be a hoodoo or a Jonah. Mariners of a century ago believed that no one could so effectively raise a wind as natives of Finland, or Russian Finns, as they were almost reproachfully called. Dana preserves the legend in his "Two Years Before the Mast" in one of the tales of the cook telling of the loss of one of the crew by drowning; Conrad also, in Wamibo of that sea classic, "The Nigger of the Narcissus."

"Parfais" should draw many church people to the opera house tonight. It is best for those intending to witness this great production tonight to bear in mind the fact that the performance commences at 7:45 sharp. Commencement of the play at that hour is necessary on account of its length, and the desire on the part of the management to avoid too late an hour for the final curtain. The warning trumpets, sounded by uniformed trumpeters at the entrance of the lobby of the theatre, will be given ten minutes before the spectacle begins. After that time elapses, late comers will not be shown to their seats till the expiration of the first part of the play.

Boy, 3, Drowned in Shallow Home Pool

Gary, Ind., Sept. 15.—(UP)—The "S. S. Betsy Ann" and the "Battle Cruiser" lay on their beam ends, their paper sails sodden and drooping today.

The toy craft constituted the backyard "navy" of Alvin Schaefer, 3, who sailed them in the eight-inch deep pool of water his father dug for him. Yesterday the boy ran into the yard to play. "Gonna have a big shipwreck maybe," he called to his mother.

Wondering why his shipwreck was so quiet an affair, she went out to the pool. Alvin had fallen into it; water and drowned.

Man Drowns as His Kin Bargain for His Rescue

Tientsin.—Bargaining relatives cost a Tientsin man his life recently. While on a pleasure trip he fell into the water at Shanhaikuan, near here. Relatives and friends attempted to rescue him but failed.

A fisherman offered to save him for $500. Relatives thought the price too high but offered $130.

The fisherman turned away. Then the relatives offered $180.

The fisherman still refused. Just as the relatives relented and agreed to the $500 price the victim's head disappeared in the water for the third time.

Petty Fraud Is Worked in the Name of Charity

Santa Barbara, Calif.—The country has been overrun with rackets, but still another one came to light here when 300 people discovered they had been bilked out of a dollar apiece, with no prospect of a refund.

Accuse Professor of Murdering His Wife

Hampton, Va., Sept. 15.—(UP)—A 39-year-old college professor, who came to Virginia with his wife for a vacation with her parents, was held on a charge of murdering her today. Conflicting stories as to how she was drowned lent mystery to the case.

The professor, Elisha Kent Kane, head of the romance language department at University of Tennessee described to Coroner George K. Vanderslice the scene at Lonely Grand View beach last Friday.

His wife, he said, had dived into the water while he was on the shore 300 yards away. Suddenly she screamed, her head bobbing up and down as if she was caught in a treacherous current. He told Vanderslice he swam quickly to her assistance, found her face downward in the water, tried to revive her after swimming with her to the beach, failed, and took the unconscious woman to a hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Ocean Traditions

A tradition of the sea of Biblical origin explains the use of the term Jonah, applied to a shipmate who is considered unlucky or a bringer of ill luck. Numerous and strange have been the reasons ascribed by ship companies for electing one of their number to be a hoodoo or a Jonah. Mariners of a century ago believed that no one could so effectively raise a wind as natives of Finland, or Russian Finns, as they were almost reproachfully called. Dana preserves the legend in his "Two Years Before the Mast" in one of the tales of the cook telling of the loss of one of the crew by drowning; Conrad also, in Wambool of that sea classic, "The Nigger of the Narcissus."

"Parfaisal" should draw many church people to the opera house tonight. It is best for those intending to witness this great production tonight to bear in mind the fact that the performance commences a 7:45 sharp. Commencement of the play at that hour is necessary on account of its length, and the desire on the part of the management to avoid too late an hour for the final curtain. The warning trumpets, sounded by uniformed trumpeters at the entrance of the lobby of the theatre, will be given ten minutes before the spectacle begins. After that time claps, late comers will not be shown to their seats till the expiration of the first part of the play.

Boy, 3, Drowned in Shallow Home Pool

Gary, Ind., Sept. 15.—(UP)—The "S. S. Betsy Ann" and the "Battle Creuser" lay on their beam ends, their paper sails sodden and drooping today.

The toy craft constituted the backyard "heavy" of Alvin Schaedler, 3, who sailed them in the eight-inch deep pool of water his father dug for him. Yesterday the boy ran into the yard to play. "Gonna have a big shipwreck maybe," he called to his mother.

Wondering why his shipwreck was so quiet an affair, she went out to the pool. Alvin had fallen into the water and drowned.

"MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Travers Lorrimer, son of the wealthy Margaret Lorrimer, broods constantly for Delight Harford, whom he claims to have married in England during the war. No trace can be found of the girl, and when Travers mistakes Mary Lou Thurston, pretty, young orphan, for Delight, Mrs. Lorrimer induces Mary Lou to play the part. Travers is told he must win "Delight" all over again. In the months that follow, Travers is more attracted to "Delight" than ever. Mary Lou loves Travers and feels she cannot keep up the masquerade. Just as the crisis is reached, Larry Mitchell, Mary Lou's newspaper reporter friend, locates the real Delight acting in a revue. Mary Lou is stunned by the news. Mrs. Lorrimer comforts Mary Lou and plans to investigate. She attends the revue while Jenny Wynne, Larry's fiancée, gives a party to keep Travers from getting suspicious. Mary sees her castle of dreams crumbling about her. In a moment of surrender, she permits Travers to kiss her. Meanwhile, Mrs. Lorrimer studies Delight at the theatre. At home, Mrs. Lorrimer debates which course she should pursue. She favors Mary Lou.

slipped on a warm velvet robe and slippers and, going to the connecting door, knocked. Mary Lou answered, and Margaret came in, pale, a little haggard, lines under the beautiful eyes. Mary Lou was still in the peach-colored dress. Her eyes were bright with excitement, but the red mouth drooped at the tucked-in corners. "I tried not to wake you," she said, self-reproachfully. Margaret sat down in a low chair and took a cigarette case and matches from her pocket. She was wide awake, her arm ached, her head was on fire, but her hands and feet felt deathly cold.

Whispered Confidences "I was awake," she answered. "You look sweet, my dear. Did you have a happy time?" "Yes—No—" replied Mary Lou, striving after honesty. "Tell me—" urged the older woman. "But you—? Did you see her? What did you think?" Mary Lou began almost hysterically. She had did tell, and revealed her own emotions to the other woman, confident that she owed her such clarity. "I'm sorry," Margaret said, inadequately. "I was glad!" Mary Lou told her in a little voice. "Oh, you know I care for him," she said, unhappily, "and that's why I must get away—anywhere, so that I'll never have to see him again!" She did not cry. She was long past tears now. "You can't go yet," said Mrs. Lorrimer. "You'll have to help me a little longer. I know what I'm asking of you. I realize it fully. But I do ask it. I'm a very selfish woman—" she tried to smile—"where Travers is concerned. I've seen—this other girl, Mary Lou. He'll never be happy with her. And all night I've been thinking what I must do."

"Did anything happen tonight? Why are you so troubled?" asked Margaret.

CHAPTER XLII. WELL, thought Margaret wearily, even if Delight Harford left the country, something could be done for her, some tribute paid. Money could arrange anything through trusted lawyers, agents. Back in London some unknown backer could be provided for her; she should be given her chance; she need never know the real source of the financial help. Thinking of this the conscience which had stirred a little was drugged to sleep again. She'd help the girl. She was perfectly willing to do so, to do anything for her save bring her into contact with her son again.

Right and Wrong

Of course, had this marriage taken place, all these plans would be of no avail. Yet perhaps Delight Harford could be bought off—induced to communicate with Lorrimer, demanding a release? Oh, whatever way her thoughts turned she found obstacles arising, questions, impasses. Her head was hot and heavy with thinking. Flashes of clear-sightedness came to her in which she hated herself. She had been all her life a very honorable person. She had greatly despised in others dishonesty, evasions, trickiness, injustice—and she found herself descending to all of these. That there was one thing to do which was straight and right and honorable she knew—and that was to see Delight Harford, hear her story, make proper investigations and if she had married Travers welcome her to Westwood house as his wife. If not, welcome her as his girl he had loved, the girl to whom he had been engaged. Knowing her son, she knew that even that long-ago relationship would constitute a claim that the girl would be perfectly free—and certainly wise—to press. But she could not induce herself to set her feet upon the plain, straightaway course. In this emergency she was perfectly willing, even eager, to remold her character to something undreamed of—in order to salvage what she was absolutely certain was her boy's happiness. Toward dawn, that dark, still period, with the spring stars still shining gallantly in the arched sky, Margaret heard Travers and Mary Lou come in. When she heard the girl moving quietly about her own room, she rose.

longed to see Margaret Lorrimer, to hear, from her own lips, of this other woman—yet dreaded to see her, too. "Yes. That can wait. Did anything happen tonight? Why are you so troubled?" asked Margaret. Mary Lou sat down on the footstool beside the low chair. She raised her clear eyes to Margaret's and was brave enough not to turn them away.

"Something will have to be done shortly," she said, slowly. "I can't keep it up much longer. He—he asked me again tonight, said he had been patient, urged me to make up my mind. He'll have to know," said Mary Lou, a little wildly, "and I must go away, where he'll never see me again. He won't care," she said, with bitterness, "once he knows the truth. He won't ever want to see me. I was a fool tonight," she said, "I couldn't help it. He—kissed me," confessed Mary Lou, "and I," she added, defiantly, "I—let him. I kissed him back."

Mrs. Lorrimer flushed. In a way, she would rather not hear that confession. Yet there was in her none of the dark jealousy of the wrong sort of mother. If everything had been clear sailing before this girl and Lorrimer, Lorrimer's mother would have rejoiced with them. And for Mary Lou's absolute integrity she had nothing but humble admiration; for the girl herself, genuine affection. Mary Lou neededn't, Margaret realized, have told. Yet she Slowly, with many interruptions for explanations, excuses, motives, Margaret told her all that had passed through her mind that evening. Mary Lou listened and said nothing.

"If it could be worked out," ended Margaret, at length, and asked, "Do you think it could be?" "Probably," said Mary Lou. "And you—agree with me? Oh, Mary Lou, if this business of the marriage is cleared up and this—this girl disposed of, can't you see what it will mean to all of us—to me, to Travers, to you?" urged Mrs. Lorrimer, a little startled by the odd, unyielding look in the small, pale face.

Strong Character

"Yes, I see in a way. But it couldn't mean anything to me. I couldn't take anything," said Mary Lou, "founded on a lie. Don't think I'm a prig, Lady Margaret," she said, giving Mrs. Lorrimer the little affectionate title she had found for her. "I'm not."

"Don't think you don't tempt me. But I wouldn't know another easy moment, even if he never found out. You see, I think he has a right to know—and to choose. I think the choice and the decision has to lie with him and with her. And I'm not like you. I believe that—that they are married. Why would he say so, if they were not?" she asked.

"I don't know," said Mrs. Lorrimer wearily. (To Be Continued)

CARELESS DRIVER IS FINED $100

Brainerd Man Arrested on Return From Accident; Driver Without Lights Also Fined

David Vanni, Brainerd, arrested here last night after he was involved in an accident on Highway No. 18 earlier in the day, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to careless driving and was fined $100 or 90 days by Judge J. H. Warner. The complaint was filed by Lieutenant R. S. Titus of the Minnesota highway patrol. Titus complained that Vanni had been drinking. The officer reported that Vanni ran off the road eight miles east of Brainerd on Trunk Highway No. 18. Three men, two women and two children in the car escaped with minor bruises. The highway officer also entered complaint against C. W. Boles, Garrison, whom he charged with driving his auto on a state highway without lights. Boles pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs. Titus explained to the court that the arrest was made because Boles drove his car from Brainerd without lights making no effort to have them repaired.

A Cave of Wonders

An ancient cave in the Fairy grooves, near the old Thuringian city of Saalfeld on the River Saale in Germany, has been opened to tourists. The cave contains many stalactites and stalagmites, some of the former being more than six feet long and almost as thin as a knitting needle. The grooves were mines for centuries, a source of alum-bearing slate. The mines were abandoned about 150 years ago.

North Dakota Settlement

It is believed that a party of Frenchmen led by Pierre de la Verendrye were the first Europeans to set foot on the territory now comprising the state of North Dakota. This party crossed from the Assiniboine river in Canada to the Missouri river in 1738 and were searching for a "river to the west." In 1742 two sons of Verendrye passed over the same region on the same mission, but after months of wandering southwest of the Missouri they were forced to return. In 1780 a French trader settled at Pembina in what is now North Dakota.

In the Same Boat

"Do you know what the hanging committee have done?" said the first artist. "They've ruined my picture by putting it next to the worst daub in the exhibition." "I've got the same complaint," said the second artist. "I looked in yesterday, and I found they've hung my picture beside an absolutely frightful thing. Don't know what the place is coming to." "How do you do, you fellows?" said artist number three, joining them. "I see they've hung your pictures side by side this year."

Imposing State Capitol

The Nebraska state capitol at Lincoln is a notable innovation in American state edifices. It is a broad, low main building 400 feet square, constructed around four courts. In the center rises an impressive square tower 400 feet high. The facade, with its setback, suggests that of the Pitti palace at Florence (1430); while the tower indicates modern German influence, recalling at the same time the turreted structure over the crossing in the older cathedral at Salamanca, Spain. Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue was the architect.

Orchids Need Much Care

Orchids, of which there are numerous varieties, are the most costly of cut flowers, for good reason. It takes seven to eight years for the plant to reach the flowering stage, and in all that long period it must be cultivated under a uniform temperature and otherwise cared for, even after it begins its single bloom a year.

The sowing and incubation of the seed are done in the laboratory in flasks or test tubes, in which the seedlings germinate under sterilized conditions.

Knows 'Em All

If you want to know anything about anybody in Hollywood, just ask Sunshine Duncan (above). Miss Duncan has been secretary of the Embassy Club in the movie capital for eleven years and knows two thousand of filmdom's celebrities. But she probably won't tell everything she knows!

Passenger Might Have Figured it for Himself

There's a long steep climb when the train to California ascends the Continental divide and usually an extra engine or so is added to make the pull. But there was no extra on this particular section of overloaded tourist traffic pouring into the Golden state and the single locomotive, taxed to its utmost, staggered along and stopped and staggered until even the conductor got nervous. Finally one of the passengers, more temperamental than the rest, could stand it no longer and began to call down the conductor. "What on earth's the matter?" he demanded, as if the conductor knew any more about it than he himself did. "That's a fool question," snapped the irate conductor. "You ought to know as well as I do that the engineer is teaching his wife how to drive."—Los Angeles Times.

Training Librarians

The first school in the world established solely for the professional training of librarians was started at Columbia college, New York city, in 1887, by Melvil Dewey, then librarian of the college. Dewey's plan for such a school had been presented to the American Library association as early as 1883, but was opposed by some of the leading librarians. Opposition gradually gave way, however, as the value of formal professional training for library workers was demonstrated, and other schools were established in various parts of the country beginning with the Pratt Institute of Library Science in 1890.

CLOSE-UP of FAMOUS GRIP - 'LEFTY' GROVE

You'll be hearing lots of "Lefty" Grove in the coming World Series. The Athletics' great southpaw is having his greatest season, with sixteen straight victories to his credit, and will probably wind up the American League show with a total of thirty-one or thirty-two wins. Not bad, says Robert Moses, but wait till the big series starts. "Lefty" would have broken all records for straight victories but for being charged with a loss when he went in as relief pitcher after winning seven straight.

"MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Travers Lorrimer, son of the wealthy Margaret Lorrimer, broods constantly for Delight Harford, whom he claims to have married in England during the war. No trace can be found of the girl, and when Travers mistakes Mary Lou Thurston, pretty, young orphan, for Delight, Mrs. Lorrimer induces Mary Lou to play the part. Travers is told he must win "Delight" all over again. In the months that follow, Travers is more attracted to "Delight" than ever. Mary Lou loves Travers and feels she cannot keep up the masquerade. Just as the crisis is reached, Larry Mitchell, Mary Lou's newspaper reporter friend, locates the real Delight acting in a revue. Mary Lou is stunned by the news. Mrs. Lorrimer comforts Mary Lou and plans to investigate. She attends the revue while Jenny Wynne, Larry's fiancée, gives a party to keep Travers from getting suspicious. Mary sees her castle of dreams crumbling about her. In a moment of surrender, she permits Travers to kiss her. Meanwhile, Mrs. Lorrimer studies Delight at the theatre. At home, Mrs. Lorrimer debates which course she should pursue. She favors Mary Lou.

CHAPTER XLII.

WELL, thought Margaret wearily, even if Delight Harford left the country, unknown and unsuspecting, something could be done for her, some tribute paid. Money could arrange anything through trusted lawyers, agents. Back in London some unknown backer could be provided for her; she should be given her chance; she need never know the real source of the financial help.

Thinking of this the conscience which had stirred a little was dragged to sleep again. She'd help the girl. She was perfectly willing to do so, to do anything for her save bring her into contact with her son again.

Right and Wrong

Of course, had this marriage taken place, all these plans would be of no avail. Yet perhaps Delight Harford could be bought off—induced to communicate with Lorrimer, demanding a release? Oh, whatever way her thoughts turned she found obstacles arising, questions, impasses. Her head was hot and heavy with thinking. Flashes of clear-sightedness came to her in which she hated herself. She had been all her life a very honorable person. She had great respect for her own honor, for her own integrity, for her own honesty, and she found herself descending to all of these. That there was one thing to do which was straight and right and honorable she knew—and that was to see Delight Harford, hear her story, make proper investigations and if she had married Travers welcome her to Westwood house as his wife; if not, welcome her as his girl he had loved, the girl to whom he had been engaged.

Knowing her son, she knew that even that long-ago relationship would constitute a claim that the girl would be perfectly free—and certainly wise—to press.

But she could not induce herself to set her feet upon the plain, straightaway course. In this emergency she was perfectly willing, even eager, to remold her character to something undreamed of—in order to salvage what she was absolutely certain was her boy's happiness.

Toward dawn, that dark, still period, with the spring stars still shining gallantly in the arched sky, Margaret heard Travers and Mary Lou come in. When she heard the girl moving quietly about her own room, she rose.

slipped on a warm velvet robe and slippers and, going to the connecting door, knocked.

Mary Lou answered, and Margaret came in, pale, a little haggard, lines under the beautiful eyes.

Mary Lou was still in the peach-colored dress. Her eyes were bright with excitement, but the red mouth drooped at the tucked-in corners.

"I tried not to wake you," she said, self-reproachfully.

Margaret sat down in a low chair and took a cigarette case and matches from her pocket. She was wide awake, her arm ached, her head was on fire, but her hands and feet felt deathly cold.

Whispered Confidences

"I was awake," she answered. "You look sweet, my dear. Did you have a happy time?"

"Yes—No—," replied Mary Lou, striving after honesty.

"Tell me—," urged the older woman.

"But you—? Did you see her? What did you think?" Mary Lou began almost hysterically. She had did tell, and revealed her own emotions to the other woman, confident that she owed her such clarity.

"I'm sorry," Margaret said, inadequately.

"I was glad," Mary Lou told her in a little voice. "Oh, you know I care for him," she said, unhappily, "and that's why I must get away—anywhere, so that I'll never have to see him again!"

She did not cry. She was long past tears now.

"You can't go yet," said Mrs. Lorrimer. "You'll have to help me a little longer. I know what I'm asking of you. I realize it fully. But I do ask it. I'm a very selfish woman—she tried to smile—where Travers is concerned. I've seen—this other girl, Mary Lou. He'll never be happy with her. And all night I've been thinking what I must do."

"What have you decided?" Mary Lou asked, very steadily. She held one hand within the other and sat erect on the little footstool. She was deadly tired.

"Did anything happen tonight? Why are you so troubled?" asked Margaret.

longed to see Margaret Lorrimer, to hear, from her own lips, of this other woman—yet dreaded to see her, too.

"Yes. That can wait. Did anything happen tonight? Why are you so troubled?" asked Margaret.

Mary Lou sat down on the footstool beside the low chair. She raised her clear eyes to Margaret's and was brave enough not to turn them away.

"Something will have to be done shortly," she said, slowly. "I can't keep it up much longer. He—he asked me again tonight, said he had been patient, urged me to make up my mind. He'll have to know," said Mary Lou, a little wildly, "and I must go away, where he'll never see me again. He won't care," she said, with bitterness, "once he knows the truth. He won't ever want to see me. I was a fool tonight," she said, "I couldn't help it. He—kissed me," confessed Mary Lou, "and I," she added, defiantly, "I—let him. I kissed him back."

Mrs. Lorrimer flushed. In a way, she would rather not hear that confession. Yet there was in her none of the dark jealousy of the wrong sort of mother. If everything had been clear sailing before this girl and Lorrimer, Lorrimer's mother would have rejoiced with them. And for Mary Lou's absolute integrity she had nothing but humble admiration; for the girl herself, genuine affection. Mary Lou needn't, Margaret realized, have told. Yet she Slowly, with many interruptions for explanations, excuses, motives, Margaret told her all that had passed through her mind that evening. Mary Lou listened and said nothing.

"If it could be worked out," ended Margaret, at length, and asked, "Do you think it could be?"

"Probably," said Mary Lou.

"And you—agree with me? Oh, Mary Lou, if this business of the marriage is cleared up and this—this girl disposed of, can't you see what it will mean to all of us—to me, to Travers, to you?" urged Mrs. Lorrimer, a little startled by the odd, unyielding look in the small, pale face.

Strong Character

"Yes, I see in a way. But it couldn't mean anything to me. I couldn't take anything," said Mary Lou, "founded on a lie. Don't think I'm a prig, Lady Margaret," she said, giving Mrs. Lorrimer the little affectionate title she had found for her. "I'm not."

"Don't think you don't tempt me. But I wouldn't know another easy moment, even if he never found out. You see, I think he has a right to know—and to choose. I think the choice and the decision has to lie with him and with her. And I'm not like you. I believe that—that they are married. Why would he say so, if they were not?" she asked.

"I don't know," said Mrs. Lorrimer wearily.

CARELESS DRIVER IS FINED $100

Brainerd Man Arrested on Return From Accident; Driver Without Lights Also Fined

David Vanni, Brainerd, arrested here last night after he was involved in an accident on Highway No. 18 earlier in the day, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to careless driving and was fined $100 or 90 days by Judge J. H. Warner.

The complaint was filed by Lieutenant R. S. Titus of the Minnesota highway patrol.

Titus complained that Vanni had been drinking. The officer reported that Vanni ran off the road eight miles east of Brainerd on Trunk Highway No. 18. Three men, two women and two children in the car escaped with minor bruises.

The highway officer also entered complaint against C. W. Boles, Garrison, whom he charged with driving his auto on a state highway without lights. Boles plead guilty and was fined $5 and costs.

Titus explained to the court that the arrest was made because Boles drove his car from Brainerd without lights making no effort to have them repaired.

A Cave of Wonders

An ancient cave in the Fairy grottoes, near the old Thuringian city of Saalfeld on the River Saale in Germany, has been opened to tourists. The cave contains many stalactites and stalagmites, some of the former being more than six feet long and almost as thin as a knitting needle. The grottoes were mines for centuries, a source of alum-bearing slate. The mines were abandoned about 150 years ago.

North Dakota Settlement

It is believed that a party of Frenchmen led by Pierre de la Verendrye were the first Europeans to set foot on the territory now comprising the state of North Dakota. This party crossed from the Assiniboine river in Canada to the Missouri river in 1738 and were searching for a "river to the west." In 1742 two sons of Verendrye passed over the same region on the same mission, but after months of wandering southwest of the Missouri they were forced to return. In 1780 a French trader settled at Pembina in what is now North Dakota.

In the Same Boat

"Do you know what the hanging committee have done?" said the first artist. "They've ruined my picture by putting it next to the worst daub in the exhibition."

"I've got the same complaint," said the second artist. "I looked in yesterday, and I found they've hung my picture beside an absolutely frightful thing. Don't know what the place is coming to."

"How do you do, you fellows?" said artist number three, joining them. "I see they've hung your pictures side by side this year."

Imposing State Capitol

The Nebraska state capitol at Lincoln is a notable innovation in American state edifices. It is a broad, low main building 400 feet square, constructed around four courts. In the center rises an impressive square tower 400 feet high. The facade, with its setback, suggests that of the Pitti palace at Florence (1430); while the tower indicates modern German influence, recalling at the same time the turreted structure over the crossing in the older cathedral at Salamanca, Spain. Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue was the architect.

Orchids Need Much Care

Orchids, of which there are numerous varieties, are the most costly of cut flowers, for good reason. It takes seven to eight years for the plant to reach the flowering stage, and in all that long period it must be cultivated under a uniform temperature and otherwise cared for, even after it begins its single bloom a year.

The sowing and incubation of the seed are done in the laboratory in flasks or test tubes, in which the seedlings germinate under sterilized conditions.

Knows 'Em All

If you want to know anything about anybody in Hollywood, just ask Sunshine Duncan (above). Miss Duncan has been secretary of the Embassy Club in the movie capital for eleven years and knows two thousand of filmdom's celebrities. But she probably won't tell everything she knows!

Passenger Might Have

Figured It for Himself

There's a long steep climb when the train to California ascends the Continental divide and usually an extra engine or so is added to make the pull. But there was no extra on this particular section of overloaded tourist traffic pouring into the Golden state and the single locomotive, taxed to its utmost, staggered along and stopped and staggered until even the conductor got nervous.

Finally one of the passengers, more temperamental than the rest, could stand it no longer and began to call down the conductor, "What on earth's the matter?" he demanded, as if the conductor knew any more about it than he himself did.

"That's a fool question," snapped the irate conductor. "You ought to know as well as I do that the engineer is teaching his wife how to drive."—Los Angeles Times.

Training Librarians

The first school in the world established solely for the professional training of librarians was started at Columbia college, New York city, in 1887, by Melvil Dewey, then librarian of the college. Dewey's plan for such a school had been presented to the American library association as early as 1883, but was opposed by some of the leading librarians. Opposition gradually gave way, however, as the value of formal professional training for library workers was demonstrated, and other schools were established in various parts of the country beginning with the Pratt Institute of Library Science in 1899.
